Negro Ballot Eyed Closely In Mississippi

Vote-In Bid Waited By Election Aides In State's Primary

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Election officials kept an uneasy watch for Negro vote-ins today as an estimated 450,000 Mississippians began voting in the Democratic primary.

Reports circulated that unregistered Negroes would invade the polls despite a ruling by Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson that such a move would be illegal.

The racial tension climaxed a campaign which centered on civil rights and the Kennedy administration. The four gubernatorial candidates, all segregationists, spent most of the campaign emphasizing their opposition to Kennedy racial policies.

The four are: —Former Gov. J. P. Coleman, 49, an Ackerman lawyer who headed the state government from 1956-60.

—Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, 47, a Hattiesburg lawyer making his fourth bid for governor.

—Robert Mason, 65, a Magee welder who polled 2,704 votes in a 1959 race for governor.

—Charles Sullivan, 38, a Clarksdale lawyer who as an unknown finished a strong third in a race for governor four years ago.

Polls opened at 7 a.m. CST and close at 6 p.m.

Observers predicted a close vote necessitating a runoff Aug. 27. Coleman was expected to face Johnson or Sullivan in the runoff, with the Democratic nominee to go against Republican Rubel Phillips and independent Ed Bishop in the Nov. 5 general election.

4 Defendants Allowed Time To Settle Tax

Four men who appeared before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today, charged with failure to file city income tax returns, were granted continuances to allow them to settle for the amounts allegedly due.

The new hearings were set Tuesday, Aug. 20, for: Floyd Cramer, 1027 Florence St.; Roosevelt Suggs, 262 Ridgeway Ave.; and James Goss, 1247 Erie St. A continuance also was granted Frank Taylor, 719 Price St., who indicated he was ready to make a settlement with the tax office today. The judge told Taylor the charges will be dismissed if he shows the court proof he has paid in full.

Another income tax case was dismissed and a bench warrant was ordered for the arrest of a sixth defendant who failed to appear in response to a summons served last week by Bailiff Wilbert P. Taylor.

The judge dismissed the

Reds Launch Another Space Probe Satellite

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union today launched another Cosmos earth satellite, an unmanned scientific research vehicle.

The launching was announced by Moscow Radio. It said this was No. 19 in the series of satellites which began going up in March 1962.

Project At Wellsville

New Post Office Contract Is Let

A Youngstown firm has been awarded a contract to construct Wellsville's new Post Office, a project that may cost between $110,000 to $120,000, Rep. Wayne L. Hays announced today.

The 18th District Congressman said at Washington the Post Office Department has let the building contract to Better Home Investment Corp. of Youngstown.

OPERATED by Kenneth, Ron and Richard Burgman, the Mahoning County firm was the lowest of 10 bidders for the project.

Better Homes Investment Corp. bid $8,651 for annual rental fee. Bids were on a 20-year basis with six 5-year renewal options.

The Post Office Department holds an option on a site on the north side of 11th St. from Main to Center Sts., in midtown.

THE OPTION will be transferred to the Youngstown firm, which will purchase the land.

Contest Assured

2 New Candidates Enter For Beaver School Board

Two new aspirants for four-year terms on the Beaver Local Board of Education filed Monday with the County Election Board to assure at least a four-way contest for three seats at the Nov. 5 general election.

Seventeen other candidates also entered yesterday afternoon and three this morning for the non-partisan school, township and village posts, boosting the total to 121.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, election board clerk, warned potential candidates the deadline to file for the non-partisan posts is Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Filing for the $36-a-year posts on the Beaver Local board were Bruce A. Costanzo of Cream Ridge Rd., a former Beaver Local High School teacher, and Mrs. Veronica E. Wolksi of West Point.

Costanzo and Mrs. Wolksi join W. Clayton Aughinbaugh and Mrs. Mildred Eells of Calcutta, both of whom filed earlier. The terms of Jack Pozenel of West Point, board president, R. J. Schiff of St. Clair Ave. Ext. and George Wilkinson of Oakmont are expiring. None has filed so far for re-election.

Several other school board and township candidates also entered along with partial slates from Salineville and Summitville.

The new Salineville candidates are Howard Wolfe for mayor and Eugene Jarvis and Howard Ahlborn for Council.

The partial slate from Summitville included Ernest T. Phillips, seeking a new term as mayor; Marjorie C. Roberts, for clerk; Evelyn Rogers, treasurer, and Robert L. Carter and Arthur P. Kosko, Council.

Robert U. Cole entered for mayor of Washingtonville and James J. Wilson filed for clerk of Hanover township.

The other school board filings included Joseph Keck and Millard E. Ferrall for Columbiana. Empty Village Board of Education and John Ross Wilhelm Jr. for the East Palestine school board.

Filing for township posts were Dawson Irey for clerk and James P. Allmon for trustee of Hanover Township; Robert F. Smith, clerk of Unity Township, and Eugene H. Webster, trustee of Washington Township.

Candidates listed this morning were: Henry Taggart, for trustee of Yellow Creek Township; Roland M. Dorr, for a post on the United Local School District Board of Education; and Carol L. Brice-land, for clerk of Franklin Township.

Costanzo resigned last month after five years as a teacher at Beaver Local High School where he was athletic director last year. A former assistant football coach, he also taught three years in the former Oak Grove elementary school.

Costanzo and his wife, who is librarian at the high school, are the parents of two sons and a daughter ranging in age from 1 to 3 and are expecting a fourth child.

A native of New Waterford, he was graduated from New Water-

Hearings Continued

In FOPA Stag Arrests

NEW CUMBERLAND — Squire John S. Bryan has continued until Aug. 19 hearings slated Monday night for six Weirton men cited on charges of gambling by Constable Patsy Cortez at the annual stag outing of the Weirton Fraternal Order of Police Associates Lodge Saturday night.

The continuance was asked for a week by Atty. Richard Barnes of Wellsville, counsel for the defendants. Squire Bryan will go on vacation soon, so the hearings were postponed to Aug. 19.

City Seeks Conference On St. Clair

State Stands Pat On Fund Guarantee As Prelude To Bidding

The State Highway Department is standing pat on its position that it will not open bids on the proposed reconstruction of outer St. Clair Ave. unless the city guarantees that it has $423,393 available as its share of the estimated $846,780 overall cost.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet received that word Monday afternoon from the Highway Department's central office at Columbus, relayed through Earl Nelson, head of the Division 11 of office in New Philadelphia.

But the administration is going ahead with efforts to work out some sort of compromise with state officials that will get the stalled project rolling again, provided the cost comes down to the $600,000 range as was estimated last December, Mayor Goodballet said.

The mayor sent a letter today to Nelson, asking him to arrange a conference at Columbus between city officials and P. E. Masheter, the Highway Department's director.

Initial arrangements for the Columbus conference were discussed Friday night at the time Council received official word that the estimated cost of the project had been revised upward to $846,780 — up nearly a quarter of a million from the earlier unofficial estimate of $604,000.

Since the city is required to pay 50 per cent of the cost, the municipality's share went up correspondingly to $423,393.

When the estimate stood at $600,000, the city's share was placed at around $300,000, including $150,000 that would be collected in special assessments from owners of abutting property.

Council decided Friday night the revised estimate would place an impossible financial burden on the city, but decided to continue to explore every avenue before giving up hope for the project.

At Council's caucus session, the mayor was required to ask Nelson to try to set up a meeting with Masheter. Among other things, the local delegation will seek to find why the estimate went up nearly $250,000 in seven months.

The mayor said he will advise

State To Ease City Cost For Span Project

The State Highway Department indicated to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet Monday afternoon it will withdraw its former request that the city pay the cost of right-of-way as part of its share of construction of a new overhead ramp to link up two dead-end sections of W. 9th St.

The question of the cost split for the Sunnyside area span has been hanging fire since early July, when the Highway Department asked the mayor to present to Council enabling legislation for the project that included the right-of-way expense as part of the city's share.

The mayor replied that he felt the right-of-way cost would burden the city with an "excessive" share of the expense. Then he continued negotiations with the Highway Department in an effort to reach a compromise that would allow the project to proceed.

In a letter received yesterday from Earl Nelson, head of the Highway Department's Division 11 office in New Philadelphia, the mayor was requested to return the legislation which the state sought to have Council enact. Nelson indicated the state plans to revise the legislation, then return it.

Cost of the ramp has been estimated at $150,000.

Rebels Land On Haiti, Threaten Duvalier Rule

'Papa Doc' Has Trouble

Hatred Grows Against Dictator On Island

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—In Louisiana there's an old saying: "God hates ugly." It means you'll get yours in time, if you're a heel or you hurt people. Yet Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier, who isn't pretty, is still Haiti's dictator.

But time is running out. He's had trouble a-plenty. He's made plenty. Monday before dawn about 500 exiled Haitian officers and soldiers reportedly landed and started an invasion of this island which Columbus liked.

If this flops, Duvalier can expect something else. His opposition within Haiti has been chipped to pieces by mass arrests, exile, murder, and political blackmail. He's too hated to sleep well.

Last month young rebels fought his regime in the mountains until they were crushed. He had a crisis in April with an army plot against him. It failed. But his army suffered. Top officers fled.

He doesn't trust his army, about 5,000 men trained mainly in police work. He has his own militia, the dreaded Ton-Ton Ma-coures (Creole for bogeymen). He had a crisis with the United States too.

He was elected in 1957, supposedly for seven years, not because he was loved but because Haiti's Negro masses had to choose between Duvalier, a Negro, and his opponent, a mulatto. The bitterness between Negroes, mostly illiterate, and the better-educated mulattoes goes back almost to the beginning of the country.

But when his term was up May 15, he decided to stay a few years more. He claimed that an election two years ago legally extended his rule. This country was self-conscious anyway for having supported this dictator, the worst in Latin America. So it suspended diplomatic relations with him.

He crushed his opponents and kept office. Then, even though the State Department said he had imposed a reign of terror, it resumed relations with him June 3.

But Duvalier pulled Uncle Sam's whiskers, a popular tactic in Haiti which remembers that U.S. Marines occupied the country from 1915 to 1934. Duvalier demanded that Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston be withdrawn. The United States withdrew him.

Heinl angered Duvalier a year ago by writing a letter—which leaked out—to army chief of staff Col. Jean Rene Boucaut. Heinl allegedly deplored Duvalier's downgrading of the regular army in favor of a civilian militia and demanded that the militia be dissolved. It wasn't.

Duvalier began a purge that ousted or exiled almost all his pro-U.S. officers, who could have led a move to overthrow him. He got even tougher. He ordered the U.S. Navy and Air Force missions to leave Haiti. The last left July 26. Remaining in Port au Prince are only the U.S. military attaché, Major John Warren, and seven Marine guards.

The country is in bad shape. Its

Help Sought From OAS By Dictator

500 Men Reported With Force Which Captures 3 Towns

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—An invasion by a small force of exiled soldiers on the north coast of neighboring Haiti threatened the terrorist regime of voodoo-preaching dictator Francois (Papa Doc) Duvalier today.

Duvalier's government acknowledged the landing and prepared an appeal for intervention by the Organization of American States. Haiti's ambassador to the OAS, Fernand Baguidy, charged that the invaders came from the Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

Haitian exile sources in Santo Domingo said at least 500 well-armed men trained for guerrilla warfare landed at Fort Liberté at 3 a.m. Monday and quickly captured the towns of Fort Liberté, Derac, Trou and Limonade.

Their immediate objective was Cap-Haitien, Haiti's second largest city, 18 miles west of Fort Liberté.

At nightfall the radio in Cap-Haitien was still in government hands, appealing for a united front to halt the invaders.

A news source in Port au Prince said Monday night little was known in public there except that a rebel force apparently was fighting the Haitian army in the north. Censors barred correspondents from sending out news by cable.

Port au Prince is 40 miles south of the invasion site.

Gen. Leon Cantave, chief of the Haitian armed forces for five months in 1957, led the invasion under the banner of the National Democratic Union. Cantave told an interviewer recently he was not interested in becoming president, only in ousting Duvalier.

Paul Verna, a former Haitian diplomat representing the National Democratic Union, said an unidentified island off the coast was used as a staging area for the invasion.

GOP Warned On Bickering By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater called on Republicans today to "stop chewing on each other and start chewing on the Democrats."

That was the Arizona Republican's reply to the action of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on Monday in sidestepping an Albany news conference question on whether he will back Goldwater for president if the latter becomes the 1964 GOP nominee.

All Rockefeller would say was: "We've got a long way to go." The governor also raised again the issue of whether Goldwater is a "captive of the radical right."

Asked about this in an interview, Goldwater said he is getting tired of Republicans knocking other Republicans. He said that's just what the Democrats want them to do.

"It's time for us Republicans to stop chewing on each other and start chewing on the Democrats," he said. "The Democrats are better fed now that they are in power and they are getting soft. We ought to get our teeth into them."

Asked if he will support Rockefeller if the New York governor becomes the 1964 nominee, Goldwater said: "He hasn't even announced that he is available." He added that he wants to wait and see what happens.

"I have a habit of supporting Republican presidential nominees unless they are personally obnoxious to me, and that hasn't happened in a long time," Goldwater said.

Big Three Air Peace Moves And Germany

Soviet, West Meet To Discuss Means Of Easing Tensions

MOSCOW (AP) — The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union today began exploring possibilities for lowering East-West tensions in the wake of their nuclear test ban treaty.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk led the American delegation to the conference in the Soviet Foreign Office with Lord Home, British foreign secretary, and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union.

The American and British delegations had conferred on what might be developed on such subjects as nonaggression pledges, prevention of surprise attack, de-nuclearized zones and the perennial German problem.

Rusk was accompanied to the conference by Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations; William C. Foster, director of the American Disarmament Agency; Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, and Charles Stelle.

Ex-Wife Sets Nuptials As Justice Weds

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Mercedes Douglas plans to marry today—the day after her former husband, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, married a girl 41 years his junior.

Mrs. Douglas divorced him six days ago.

Monday—as her husband's marriage to a 23-year-old government girl was making headlines — Mercedes Douglas came up with some news of her own: At 6 p.m. today, at the home of a friend, she would marry Robert B. Eichholz, 52, a Washington attorney.

Mrs. Douglas is 46.

Their sudden marriage plans came as a surprise to many—as did the marriage of the towering, white-thatched justice to a secretary whom he first met when she was a college coed.

The former Joan Carol Martin and Douglas were united in a church ceremony at Buffalo, N.Y.

Korean Line Quiet

U.S. Traps Fail To Net Koreans

WITH U.S. 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea (AP) — A heavy American force set up ambush positions in the demilitarized zone Monday night and withdrew at dawn today without contacting any Communist North Korean troops.

The combat-ready Americans went into position at dusk Monday. They set up three traps for Communist patrols that have been striking into United Nations territory and on occasions launching strong attack on U.S. units.

The exact number of American troops involved was classified. But the U.S. force is known to have been much larger than the small patrols that normally guard the U.S. sector of the 151-mile truce line established after the Korean War.

The scene was about 13 miles east of Panmunjom near a road junction where two Americans were killed in a North Korean ambush July 29.

Motorist To Appeal

Driver Convicted, Court Doubts 'Other Man' Story

Refusing to believe that another man was the actual driver of the auto, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff sentenced an East End motorist to nine months in jail and fined him $500 and costs on charges of drunken driving and driving under suspension of his license following a lengthy hearing Monday.

Melvin Harris, 49, of 1071 Pennsylvania Ave. drew the fine and 90-day term in the City Jail on a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and six months in the county jail for driving while his license was suspended.

However, Judge Chertoff agreed to release Harris on his $500 bond pending a motion for a new trial to be filed by his counsel, Atty. W. S. Foulks.

In finding Harris guilty of the two charges filed by police, Judge Chertoff said he couldn't stretch his imagination to believe the defendant's claim that a mysterious man known only as "Charlie" was driving the pickup truck when it was involved in a collision July 28 at Pennsylvania Ave. and Mulberry St. with a stopped car operated by William Lister, 826 Riverview St., a city fireman.

Judge Chertoff pointed out "Charlie" did not appear at the hearing, but easily could have been located since Harris testified he was a frequent visitor to the boat dock at Chester.

The judge also recalled from memory that it was Harris' second arrest in the city in six months for drunken driving and his third within a year.

Court records show Harris was arraigned Jan. 7 on a drunk driving charge and was fined $300 and costs, sentenced to 30 days in the city jail and his license was suspended for a year after entering a "no contest" plea.

The judge said Harris also was arrested last September in Marietta on a similar charge.

Workers In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Bandits herded 45 men into an abandoned farmhouse Monday and knifed them to death one by one. Two others survived.

The massacre occurred after an ambush on a country road near the town of La Victoria, 60 miles northwest of Bogota. The victims were 30 road workers traveling in three trucks and 15 men on a bus.

Others Seek Jobs

Many Servicemen Given Charity Due To Low Pay

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine enlisted men have had to turn to charity because they are unable to make ends meet on their service incomes.

An Associated Press survey of the military services and service-affiliated relief organizations in-

One Marine welfare officer called it "disgraceful" that senior non-commissioned officers living in Washington, D.C., area should have to take off-duty civilian jobs to keep their heads above water. The armed services said they do not know even approximately how many of their men have been drawing some form of relief.

A hint of the scope comes from the semi-official military relief organizations, which operate on voluntary contributions. These groups were set up because regulations bar the services from using government funds to furnish emergency aid.

Army Emergency Relief gave out $4,178,661 in loans and grants last year. One-third of this went to 12,215 cases to pay for food, rent, and utilities.

The Navy Relief Society distributed $4,056,570 in 1962, about half going to avert want among Navy men, Marines, their wives and children.

The Air Force Aid Society paid out more than $750,000 between December and May. No breakdown was available of the portion devoted to staving off destitution.

The help furnished by service relief societies is generally of a one-shot variety. For long-term help, the services are banking on a $1.2-billion military pay bill before Congress. It would provide the first military pay boost in five years, but would not provide more money for privates and seamen.

Pentagon leaders headed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara contend the pay situation is damaging morale among the 2.7 million people in the armed forces and driving men with valuable skills out of uniform.

Senate Weighs Boost In Military Pay Scale

WASHINGTON — A pay raise bill for the services was approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee Monday, and was to be considered today by the whole Senate.

The bill would provide pay boosts ranging from $5 to $230 a month — an average of 4 per cent — for nearly 2 million men and women in the service. It differs in some respects from a House bill passed in May, and a final version will probably be worked out by a joint conference committee.

dedicated today that the relief agencies have paid out millions of dollars to help provide military families with such needs as food and clothing.

Some families accept food surplus packages. Others, particularly those with many children, are able to draw state welfare payments.

Armed forces personnel specialists said many men take jobs in bowling alleys, filling stations, groceries and other private businesses to add to their service pay. Their wives often work.

New Trial Alternative

Ex-Courthouse Worker Offered $512 To Settle

LISBON — A Common Pleas Court ruling has offered Mrs. Jane Case a $512 settlement or the alternative of another trial in her action against Columbiana County commissioners for back pay after dismissal from a Courthouse job as the result of the Republican takeover of control of the personnel.

The ruling in effects reduces her award by $3,472 from the previous trial June 27. The Columbiana woman claims she was dismissed illegally as the telephone operator at the Courthouse by Commissioners Walter Hunston and Galen Greenstein.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard in his ruling found that "the verdict of the jury on the question of damages to be manifestly against the weight of the evidence," and granted commissioners a new trial in the pay suit with the former PBX operator unless she consents to accept the $512 settlement.

The jury awarded her a verdict of $3,984.50 June 27 but the prosecutor's office filed a motion for a new trial immediately.

In the eight - page opinion, Judge Buzzard said, "the evidence clearly shows that she did not persevere, that there was nothing constant or steady in her attempts to get work."

"The court does not believe that she was under obligation to spend all her time looking for work but certainly she was under an obligation to do considerably more than what the evidence shows she did."

The court pointed out that her efforts to secure work while laid off from her Civil Service job consisted of a phone call to Kaiser Chemical Co., and casual inquiries about a job at Ben Franklin and Vogue stores, while shopping.

Judge Buzzard also pointed out that when her deposition was taken prior to the trial she admitted that she "just stayed at home and did nothing" towards finding a job after April 4, 1961. She was released Feb. 1, 1961.

Mrs. Case and four other county employees, Patricia Barborak of West Point, Camilla Smith of Wellsville and Ruth Wining, also of Columbiana, were discharged by county commissioners, but they claimed Civil Service status and the four thereafter filed an action in the 7th District Court of Appeals on an appeal to the State Supreme Court it found in a 4-2 decision that the employees had provisional or temporary Civil Service status at the time of their discharge and could not be fired without cause.

When the high court ordered the women reinstated, county commissioners complied but immediately discharged them for cause — political activity. Employees are barred from engaging in politics while under Civil Service.

Mrs. Case appealed the latter discharge and this matter is pending in the court of appeals. The other three employees did not appeal the second discharge.

The ruling just decided concerns the first of four cases pending, which were brought by the four employees to recover wages for the period while their Civil Service status was in litigation. No services were performed by them for the county during that period.

None of the attorneys, Paul Tobin of East Liverpool, Guy Mauro of Salem or Lawrence Stacey of Columbiana, counsel for Mrs. Case, nor County Prosecutor G. William Brokaw or special assistant prosecutor, Howard M. Cole, have indicated whether further appeals will be taken on Judge Buzzard's ruling.

Portsmouth Man Linked By FBI With 7 Robberies

CLEVELAND (AP)—Harold H. Thompson, operator of a Portsmouth barber shop, has been charged with four holdups of Ohio financial institutions, and the FBI says he may have been involved in three others.

The loot from the seven holdups in a little more than three years totaled more than $31,000, the FBI says.

Lawrence Rawlins, 29, of Portsmouth, arrested with Thompson July 29 shortly after a holdup in Medina, allegedly was involved in two other holdups with Thompson, and charges will be filed, the FBI said Monday.

Rawlins allegedly acted as lookout for Thompson, 34, on three holdups, said Edward E. Hargett, agent in charge of the FBI's Cleveland office.

Hargett listed the three holdups in which charges are being filed against both men as the Medina holdup, in which $2,395 in cash and $3,700 in travelers checks was taken from an Akron Savings & Loan Association branch; the $5,053 holdup Nov. 20, 1961, of the Perry Heights branch of the State Banking Co. in Massillon, and the $1,994 holdup last July 23 of the West Branch office of the Park Federal Savings & Loan Association in Columbus.

Thompson, also has been charged with the $7,052 holdup April 26, 1962, of the Kenwood Plaza branch of the Eagle Savings & Loan Association in Cincinnati.

Robbers Get $22,000 In Furs At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two well dressed robbers took $22,000 worth of jewelry and furs and $670 in cash after tying up a Shaker Heights man and his wife in their apartment.

Mr. and Mrs. Ephreim Horowitz told police they were waiting for an interior decorator at the apartment Monday when the buzzer rang. Horowitz unlocked the front door, he said, and was faced with a snub-nosed revolver. Two men came in carrying briefcases in front of their faces.

The men used curtain cord to tie Horowitz, 57, a real estate investor, and his wife, Gussie, 53. Both were gagged with pillows.

West Point Minister Dies

The Rev. H. W. Applegate, pastor of the West Point Church of the Nazarene, died suddenly shortly before noon, apparently from a heart attack.

Rev. Applegate, who was employed by the Columbiana County Highway Department, died while operating a road grader in a road project in Knox township, and was stricken about 11:30 a.m.

Rev. Applegate, who began his 26th year in the West Point pulpit in January, had been suffering from a heart condition several years.

He is survived by his widow, a son and a daughter and his mother.

The Ellis-Leggett Funeral Home at Lisbon is arranging services.

Price E. Schmidt

Price E. Schmidt, 209 Maple St., Lisbon, a former East Liverpool area potter, died Monday at 9:39 a. m. at Salem City Hospital where he had been a patient for 10 days. He had been in failing health a number of years. He was 72.

He was born Oct. 2, 1891, in Glenmoor to the late Jacob Schmidt and Louise Göttinger. His last employment was at the Sterling China Co. in Wellsville. His wife died a month ago.

Mr. Schmidt was a veteran of World War I.

Survivors include two sons, William Schmidt and Thomas Schmidt, both of Lisbon, and two grandchildren.

Services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Ellis-Leggett Funeral Home in Lisbon by the Rev. Russell Long, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene. Burial will be in Spring Hill Cemetery, Wellsville.

Burial will be in Sylvania Hills Memorial Park, Rochester.

Friends may call tonight at the funeral home.

Karol Mscisz

Karol (Metz) Mscisz, retired employe of the former American Sheet & Tin Plate Co. in Chester, died Monday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Carl (Pauline) Slodkowski, of Baltimore. He was 86.

He was born in Poland March 30, 1877. He retired when the mill closed in 1931.

Other survivors include three sons, John J. Metz of Dearborn, Mich., Michael G. Metz of East Liverpool and Julian Metz, with the Civil Service Commission in Germany; three other daughters, Mrs. Edward (Frances) Szelata of Baltimore, and Mrs. Cecil (Mary) McGraw and Mrs. Paul (Kathryn) Chema, both of East Liverpool, and 16 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Requiem High Mass will be sung Friday morning at 9 at the Chester Sacred Heart Catholic Church, with Fr. Eugene Jacobs in charge. Burial will be in Locust Hill Cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited Thursday night at 7 at the Arner Funeral Chapel in Chester, where friends may call Wednesday and Thursday.

Samuel Keller

Services for Samuel F. Keller of Wellsville R. D. 1, who died Monday, will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Haugh Funeral Home in Wellsville.

The Rev. Dominic Prosperi, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene at Stratton, will officiate and burial will be in Morning View Cemetery at Irondale.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Elmer E. Ware

Elmer E. Ware, 45, died about 8 a. m. today at the home of his brother, Ernest J. Ware, 416 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, following an illness of several months.

A native of Wellsville, Mr. Ware was the son of the late Percy and Alice Jenkins Ware. He was graduated from Wellsville High School and was a member of Lee's Chapel of the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

A veteran of World War II.

he had been employed as a machinist at the Conway shop of the Pennsylvania Railroad for nearly 20 years.

Surviving are another brother, William P. Ware of Toledo, and three sisters, Mrs. Hilda Gregory of Los Angeles, Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins of Baltimore, and Mrs. Zelma Gregory of Toledo.

The MacLean Funeral Home of Wellsville is arranging services.

George Clapsadle

George T. Clapsadle, 77, of Leetonia R. D. 1, a retired farmer, died suddenly Monday at 6 p. m. at home apparently of a heart attack.

Born Nov. 28, 1885, at Lisbon R. D. 1, a son of Jefferson Clapsadle and Rebecca Crawford Clapsadle, he lived all his life in the vicinity. His wife, the former Alice Lodge, died Nov. 27, 1943. He was a member of St. Jacob's United Church of Christ.

Survivors include two sons, Dallas Clapsadle of Lisbon and Kenneth Clapsadle of Leetonia R. D. 1; two sisters, Mrs. Clyde McDewitt of Lisbon and Mrs. Anna Nemon of East Canton; three brothers, William Clapsadle of Alliance, Herman Clapsadle of Akron and Burt Clapsadle of Canton and one grandchild.

Services will be held Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Henry Funeral Home in Lisbon by the Rev. William Ring. Burial will be in Lisbon Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Class Started For Firemen

Calcutta volunteer firemen began devoting part of their meetings to refresher classes in fire-fighting at a session Monday night in the fire hall.

Chief Laverne Seckman announced that the refresher courses will be held during a part of the meetings through the winter months.

He conducted the first part of a two-part course on use of the resuscitator. The department's resuscitator is available free to anyone in need of such equipment and arrangements may be made by calling the department at 386-5311.

Dale Horgan, president, conducted business. Twenty - three members attended. Ralph Dunn was enrolled as a regular fireman after completion of probationary training.

The fire hall, fire truck and tanker truck were cleaned. The trucks had been left outside all last week due to carnival activities. Firemen said the carnival was a "big success" but final figures are not yet available because of unpaid expenses.

arrested Harris, testified the defendant was "very intoxicated."

He said he was in a cruiser on Boyce St. when notified of the wreck and arrived at the scene within a minute but both drivers were out of the vehicles. Neither the car nor the truck had been moved, he said, and the doors on both vehicles were closed.

The officer testified he asked who was the driver of the pickup truck but received no answer. A youngster in the crowd pointed out Harris as the driver, Strobel said.

Officer Strobel also told the court that Harris never at any time mentioned anyone else as the driver.

Patrolman Karl W. Samples testified he was in police headquarters when Harris was brought in and related his condition.

Lister told the court he had halted for the traffic signal when his car was struck in the rear. When he got out to see what happened, Harris was behind the wheel of the truck, he declared. Taking the stand in his own defense, Harris testified he had been working at the dock on some boats with his son when "Charlie" volunteered to drive him home.

He denied he was driving the truck but admitted he had been drinking and had consumed "quite a few beers."

When the accident occurred, Harris testified that "Charlie" declared, "I'm on parole!" and jumped out of the truck and fled. The defendant said he was unable to open the door on the passenger side of the truck and slid under the wheel preparatory to getting out on the driver's side when spotted by Lister.

Harris' son testified he saw the man called "Charlie" start to drive his father home.

Dominic Volino told the court when the truck passed his place of business several hundred yards from the accident scene that Harris was sitting on the passenger side.

Harris pleaded innocent to both charges when arraigned July 29 but was granted a continuance until July 31 to obtain counsel.

When he appeared without counsel last Wednesday and asked another delay, Judge Chertoff reluctantly set the hearing for yesterday but warned Harris to be prepared to go to trial with or without an attorney.

School Board Contracts Let

A series of contracts for supplies for the 1963-64 term was awarded Monday night at a meeting of the Western Beaver County Joint School Board at the high school in Industry.

Kurtz Brothers of Clearfield, Pa., received a $6,484 contract for art and general school supplies. The Allied Oil Co. of Cleveland was given a contract for fuel oil for the Fairview School on its bid of 10.6 cents a gallon.

A contract to supply milk was divided equally between the Smith Dairy of Industry and the Hyllmede Dairy of Beaver. A contract for bread and pastry went to the Keystone Bakery Co.

Miss Margaret Ann Richards of Beaver was named as an eighth grade English teacher.

Permission was granted for the high school band to play at the opening night of the Fairview Grange Fair Aug. 13. Leo Curto is director.

Charles Henderson, chairman of the building and grounds committee, said all of the buildings are being prepared for the opening of school Sept. 4.

The transportation committee has scheduled a meeting Aug. 12 to discuss and consider requests from parents for school buses to make additional stops.

Next regular meeting is scheduled Sept. 9, with the second meeting of the month set Sept. 23.

Tax

charges against John W. Fitch, 518 Mulberry St., who submitted proof he had paid amounts allegedly due for both 1962 and 1963.

The capias was ordered for Davis Parr of Williams Ave., Fisher Park, who also was scheduled to appear at 9 this morning.

Quered by the judge, the bailiff reported when he served the summons last week he was told Parr would not appear because "he works in Pittsburgh and will not take a day off." The judge ordered the police department to serve the capias on Parr and have him in court Wednesday morning.

Today's cases resulted from the filing of charges against 10 defendants last week by D. G. Wilkinson, income tax commissioner.

Earlier, the court had granted a continuance until Aug. 20 in the case of John W. Jackson, 820 Pennsylvania Ave.

Charges against three others were dismissed previously when they showed proof of payment. The defendants were: Richard D. Darrah of Park Blvd., George C. Adams, 170 Vernia St., and Mrs. Mabel Thomas, 339 E. 8th St.

Parr and Goss each are accused of one violation — failure to file a declaration of estimated income for 1963. Each of the other eight was named on two counts — failure to file a final return on 1962 income and failure to file an estimate on 1963 earnings.

After the cases were heard this morning, the judge commented that he is "prepared to go to any length to see that the people pay the tax."

"But I don't want to see anyone go to jail unless it is adamant defiance of the law," he added. "I would rather see them take it up with the tax department."

Most of the defendants gave the judge an explanation of the circumstances in their cases. Suggs said he still owes about $35 for 1962 and 1963 taxes. Cramer, unable to appear, sent his wife. She said a payment was made last Wednesday on the 1962 tax and the balance will be paid today.

Wilkinson said Goss owes $15 on his 1962 tax and has not filed a declaration on anticipated 1963 income. The judge instructed Goss to "get straightened out with the tax office by Aug. 20 or come back prepared to go to jail."

Are Commies Breaking Up?

While our side drools over the mean things Communists are saying about one another, chances are the other side is letting itself think occasionally how funny their ideological squabbles might turn out to be.

Ideological squabbles are as common as family quarrels.

They fool outsiders every time.

It's like our national political campaigns, in which the boys throw everything that isn't bolted to the floor. Foreigners think another civil war has begun.

They're always surprised when everybody kisses and makes up a few days after ballots have been cast. They didn't think the squabbles could be left in the same room together — and now they're going out to lunch!

NASTY AS THE political parties can get about each other, dirty words and blasphemy don't really fly until a fight breaks out inside the party. That is when mothers are well-advised to lock up small children and imprudent talking birds.

Only then does the hot breath of truth blow away the fudge and fog and reveal the hatreds and animosities.

When it happens, those with their ear to the door turn white lest the chasm threatening to swallow the party never can be bridged over. Nervous Nellies predict the end of the cause.

The opposition lets its hopes soar. Those of faint heart skitter for cover and are glad to be out of the line of fire. There is a bloody battle of press releases.

Unimpeachable sources are quoted about the forthcoming demise of the organization.

Then a halt is called and all the antagonists wrap their prehensile tentacles about each other in brotherly love and go fishing.

They always fish for the same thing — power.

They disagree about everything but the one thing that looms largest in their lives — love of office.

WHEN THE CHIPS are down, they do what families have done since time immemorial; they hang together.

Their quarrels are laid aside while they combine against the common foe. They do this in the United States. They do it among the Western Allies. They do it in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

They do it in the Democratic and Republican parties, and they do it in the international Communist conspiracy.

They do it all the time and it fools people all the time.

Russian and Chinese Communists are saying terrible things about each other. It looks as if all the Communists on earth must be locking horns over irreconcilable opinions.

"Goody, goody, goody," chatter the hopefuls. "The Communists are breaking up."

Like fun they are. They are held together by the strongest mucilage known to man — the lust for power. They will drink each other's bath water before they drink each other's blood.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
It might be wondered whether President Kennedy really has any time to read the newspapers or, if not, whether he is being told by his aides just what is going on in connection with the Negro and white demonstrations in different parts of the country.

The impression conveyed by the President at his latest news conference was that the racial demonstrations were petering out, when actually they have been spreading and their intensity has been increasing. It may be, of course, as often happens in politics, that the tactics of the administration are to "play down" what is occurring. But the newspapers are certainly printing the facts every day.

The President at his news conference did not take exception to a statement that "it has seemed as the summer has progressed the vigor or some of the fever has gone out of the Negro demonstrations that we had around the country earlier in the year."

Mr. Kennedy was then questioned as to why this might have come about and what effect it might have on legislation, and he replied.

"I think it is partly because an awful lot of work is being done in the local communities by biracial groups, by responsible officials, and this is true north and south, east and west, partly because I think the Negroes are aware that the Congress is considering legal remedies for some of the difficulties that they face, partly because the responsible Negro leadership, I think, realizes that this is a long-drawn-out task to bring about, which requires jobs, which requires education and all the rest, and a quick demonstration in the street is not the immediate answer.

"BUT MERELY because the demonstrations have subsided, it doesn't seem to me — those of us who are in a position of responsibility — does not mean that we should go to sleep and forget the problem, because that is no solution. So I think it may be a good thing that the demonstrations, particularly in their extreme form, are subsiding.

"I think in some cases they were becoming self-defeating, and particularly demonstrations that I have seen, that I have read about recently, seemed to me to be rather fringe actions. I thought they were self-defeating. But I would hope that if there is a period of quiet, that we would use it and not merely regard it as an end to the effort."

But a careful examination of the New York Times, for example, in the four days preceding the President's news conference of last Thursday, shows that on Monday the first page contained a headline which read, "Negroes to push picketing in city in drive for jobs—demonstrations due today at projects in Brooklyn, Queens and Harlem."

On Tuesday morning, a headline on the first page of the Times read as follows: "Pickets arrested for blocking way to mayor's office."

On another page, an article told how a criminal court judge lectured seven persons, including seven clergymen, who pleaded guilty to violating the law by their demonstrations on July 22.

On another page, a dispatch from Boston reported the first clash in that city as a result of a demonstration by both Negroes and whites.

ON WEDNESDAY, the New York Times, on its front page, stated that there had been 691 arrests during July as a result of demonstrations in New York City. Thirty-one adults were arrested at a medical center in Brooklyn and 18 children were picked up while trying to block construction vehicles. A dispatch on the same day from Clarksdale, Miss., told of the arrest of 52 Negroes — including a number of juveniles — for parading without a permit.

On Thursday morning, on the first page of the New York Times was a headline reading, "Near-riot flares in race protest at project here—pickets hit and kick police in Brooklyn after blocking street — 22 arrested—3 more in sit-in are ousted at City Hall."

On the inside pages of the Times on the same day were articles telling of riots and demonstrations.

On Friday morning, in the issue following the President's press conference, a headline on the front page of the Times in the first column read as follows: "7 pickets seized for blockading governor's door — patrolman is maulled." In the second column of the same page appeared the headline, "President hails lull in picketing."

The New York Herald Tribune — which the President once said he doesn't read — also carried similar dispatches each day.

The United Press International on its news tickers — with which the White House offices are equipped — summarized in a dispatch from Chicago the events of last Wednesday night and the following morning.

THE DISPATCH, received before the President's press conference on Thursday afternoon, read as follows:

"One-hundred police squads today quelled Chicago's worst racial demonstrations in two years as a white and Negro community leaders met in emergency sessions to try to calm South Side racial unrest."

"Forty-seven persons were arrested and four policemen were injured last night and early today in disturbances touched off by the move of two Negro families into a predominantly white residential neighborhood."

"Hundreds of white persons milled through the old Irish community, flinging rocks and bottles, taunting police who sought to disperse them, and waving crude posters reading: 'We don't want to integrate.'"

Three blocks away, across a railroad viaduct that divides the predominantly white neighborhood from a Negro neighborhood, hundreds of Negroes gathered at an intersection and jeered Negro and white policemen who sought to disperse them.

"Police estimated that 1,000 persons were involved in the two disturbances."

So it is a little difficult to see why the President feels that the fever or vigor of the "demonstrations" is "subsiding."

'The Thought That Terrifies Me About Khrushchev Is That He Might Blunder Into Peace.'

Touching Cheers From Our Friends

By VICTOR RIESEL

I do not weep often. But weep I did the other night in the small stone room used as a headquarters by the leaders of the "barriadas" — Peru's shanty towns in which live some 800,000 people.

I should not use the imposing word "shanty town" for a barriada is the slum of slums. I should not use the word "live." I should say "exist."

Perhaps I wept because the young Indian woman, with a baby slung over her back papoose fashion, was crying for a son in trouble. Perhaps the tears came because the slum leaders were cheering their American visitor and his home country the United States which they reverence as a symbol of freedom.

Perhaps I wept because they have nothing, want no handouts, have banded together to help themselves, seek only justice and do not even take time out to find bread if they discover their property and misery is being exploited by Communist agents attempting to penetrate the country's 271 barriadas.

LET ME TELL you of one of the nearby barriadas wherein live so many of our friends.

It is an almost impenetrable maze of box-like rooms. There are no windows. There are no lights. There is no water. There are no sanitary facilities. Neither improvised nor traditional. Nor is there room for such, so tightly squeezed together do these people live.

Each room is a home, perhaps with a rattan wall, or made of rotting pieces of scrap board, or some bricks. The barriadas are on the sides of hills, or alongside old walls, or on open fields. Some such as the Pampa de Comas have as many as 80,000 people.

Church records show that recently a woman sold her 14-year-old daughter into white slavery so the rest of the family could have some food for a while. There are other grim reports.

So, small committees have sprung up for self aid. These were organized into councils covering a complete barriada in 60 such locations. They then formed a central committee to lead the Frente Unico en Defensa de las Barriadas del Peru.

The barriada council meets every Monday evening to help its people, or attempt to plan improvements or "defend the women" and to handle the complexity of problems of the desperate and hungry. Then they send delegates to the Central Committee of the Frente which meets every Tuesday night.

THIS CENTRAL council is led by the owner of a small chandler shop, Victor Chirinos. To help his people he has let his business slide. He is in debt. There is not much now for him and his wife who heads the barriadas' National Committee for the Defense of the Mother and the Child.

There also is a doctor who sits in with the council to lend his aid and medical advice. And in some barriadas there also is the clergy from other lands.

When I arrived for the central council meeting, Victor Chirinos was disturbed. He had just received news from other central committee members that young Communists were planning to invade the barriadas. These intruders, trained by Castro and returned over the Communist aerial shuttle, had as their objective the provocation of riotous street demonstrations by tens of thousands from the barriadas.

Victor Chirinos wanted us to know that the poor people of Peru were with the United States. They want housing and jobs, but not Fidelismos.

The council members cheered those sentiments and their visitor when those words were spoken. That hip hip hooray for the United States reverberated inside me for days — especially when I talked privately with Peru's President Fernando Belaunde in his home. I asked him about reports which insinuated that under his new regime Peru might soften on Cuba.

Sharply he said Peru would never recognize Castro. He said, however, his people needed help and he hoped to provide it without any fancy revolutionary slogans from abroad.

THE HOUSING for the people, such as those from the barriadas, and for the Indians who keep coming down from the sierras, would depend on whether a system of guaranteeing bonds could be put together. And much of it would depend, of course, on the United States.

Such a credit system of guaranteed loans would not only provide housing for the homeless but money for vast public works to make jobs.

Belaunde, democratically elected during the military regime, rose quickly from his chair at one point and reached into a desk for a big map of South America. He crisscrossed his finger along the outlined nations. He spoke of a network of new roads and tunnels and deepened rivers. And he said: "If your country gives us big help, we will build big highways and open the mountains and plains for trade and our people. If your country helps us a little, we will build little roads. If your country does not help, we will build a trail. But we will build, and take our people out of poverty."

They are our friends. Let's help them build. Let's not ignore them while we woo the neutral mind. Let's remember the cheers of the people of the barriadas.

Defense Spending

By Laurence Barrett

The Defense Department is seeking the capability to determine the precise effects — by geographical area and industry — of changes and reductions in defense spending.

Once developed, the system could be used to help determine accurately the impact of possible future arms control or disarmament agreements.

The present work would not, in itself, be a blueprint for adjustment to disarmament measures. Rather it would make possible the drawing of such a blueprint by devising methods to collect and digest necessary data.

The project came to light as Under Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman commented on this little-discussed phase of the disarmament picture. Mr. Harriman, after concluding a nuclear test-ban agreement with the Soviet Union, was asked at a press conference whether this country's economy could survive genuine progress toward disarmament. He gave the standard administration reply—that a shift of public money from defense to civilian areas "would make this country a better place in which to live."

THE EXCHANGE pointed up the concern that is often heard privately, especially in business circles, that disarmament is unfeasible because of the economic dislocation it would cause. Although major international agreements on the subject are not imminent, it is possible that at some future time fears of economic chaos could impede progress toward disarmament.

Loud protests are heard today when relatively minor shifts affect some areas.

Presently, the defense spending runs to more than $50 billion a year, which is more than half the federal budget and about 10 percent of the gross national product.

There have been studies made on the impact of this avalanche of cash—and the possible effects of the slowing down of that avalanche.

However, there does not exist today exact tools for measuring the impact of particular shifts in defense spending. Much of the work that has been done in this field has not paid sufficient attention to the subcontractors in defense procurement—the companies that absorb about half of the government's spending for military material.

A few months ago, the Defense Department asked the Institute for Defense Analysis (IDA) to work on this problem. By the end of 1963, IDA hopes to have alternative proposals for a data collection and evaluation system.

THE NEXT STEP remains uncertain. It's obviously impossible to work out a detailed plan to ameliorate economic problems until the details of a given disarmament step are known.

But, it is hoped that the IDA project will equip the government to determine quickly what the effects would be if, for instance, agreement could be reached on restricting the production of nuclear weapons.

Only when this information is in hand could the government develop programs for reducing or eliminating possible shock to the economy.

The work being done by IDA is only part of a large-scale effort in several agencies on this subject.

IDA, with headquarters in Washington, is a non-profit organization set up in 1956.

Friends Who Vanish In The Shade

The judge in the trial of Stephen Ward, Sir Archie Marshall, has made some studied remarks about friendship from the bench that possibly will be remembered longer than the lurid testimony that led to Ward's conviction on charges of living off the earnings of prostitution and procuring girls for other men.

"The persons involved here were his friends," Justice Marshall declared, in one of his summaries of proceedings. "There may be reasons why he has been abandoned in his extremity but (to the jury) you must not guess at them."

"Many witnesses of high estate and low could have come here and testified in support of his evidence," the justice observed. "They could have been called by the defense and could have enormously strengthened the case concerning earnings of prostitution."

THE JURIST made his remarks before the British osteopath and amateur artist had swallowed an overdose of sleeping pills, without waiting to learn of the outcome of his trial, in which he was found guilty. After that had happened, still further observations about friendship came from a young woman who had been Ward's daily companion during his trial.

"There's a whole crowd of people praying for Stephen to die so that their names won't be mentioned," she said. If he dies, I'm going to make sure that they are."

If there can be any lesson drawn from a situation revealing human nature at its worst, both in what happened before the scandal and what has been happening since it broke before the fascinated gaze of a morbidly curious world, it would have to be a line of wisdom about false friends—who are like shadows, keeping close while men walk in the sunshine, leaving when they walk in the shade.

STEPHEN WARD was not the first and assuredly won't be the last to learn a tragic truth about friends who disappear when trouble starts.

Whether his missing "friends" could have changed the outcome of his trial will never be known.

They could have changed the outcome of his life.

Real All-Stars

The East Liverpool Pony League All-Stars have done themselves proud by retaining the Sectional championship they won last year.

Unruffled by a defeat in their first game over the weekend at Marietta, the youngsters came roaring back to win four straight and advance to region play at New Castle.

Once more we doff our baseball caps to a fine bunch of youngsters and an equally fine bunch of adults who so capably have guided them along the victory trail.

We hope the Pony Leaguers go all the way this year, but regardless they can be sure that all of East Liverpool has gotten a thrill out of their exploits on the diamond. They have represented the city well.

By Truman Twill

You can understand how a taxpayer in these circumstances might forget he has been placed on this earth and in this blessed land to render unto Caesar and to render and to render and to render until there was nothing left to render.

The same amnesic impulse that paralyzed the will of James M. Landis from 1956 through 1960 has hit many of us. But everything has conspired to rub our will back into consciousness — warnings not to forget our duty, little communications from jolly old Uncle Sam, cartoons and jokes about the annual moment of truth, our own sense of responsibility for underwriting the piddling away of billions to make the world safe for democracy . . . whoops, that was another emergency. But just the same, something always jarred us back to awareness of our duty.

Sometimes we had to dog-trot to the post-office to get the documents postmarked before midnight of April 15 but by George we always made it!

This 'n That

The popular expression "two bits" to signify a quarter of a dollar originated in the early days of American history when the Spanish dollar was a familiar medium of currency. When small change was needed, the dollar was cut. The coin could be divided into eight pieces or "eight bits."

Many of the ancient Greek and Roman roads are still in use today — the original paving stone still intact after many centuries of hard usage.

The first mansion to be built for a president of the United States was in New York City, where George Washington at one time made his official residence.

Harness racing began back in ancient times, about 1,000 B.C., in the Grecian Olympic Games, at least 200 years before the origin of horseback racing. Today in the U. S., harness racing takes place on about 440 tracks.

Both diamonds and anthracite coal are comprised almost entirely of pure carbon.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By George Lichty

"You can analyze political trends, world events, and business statistics, Roscoe! . . . How come you can't interpret a simple traffic sign?"

We Always Made It

Nothing in the news recently — not the Profumo scandal, the nuclear test-ban treaty, not even preparations for our First Lady's accouchement — has pursued more lips than James M. Landis forgetting to pay federal income taxes for 1956 through 1960.

Some years ago, this man was Mister Government Official, his occupational listing in "Who's Who in America" to this day. We ran across his name in everything we read in the '40s and '50s.

James M. Landis . . . National Power Commission . . . Office of Civilian Defense . . . Civil Aeronautics Board . . . author, consultant, educator, advisor, special assistant to the President etc.

THIS IS WHAT comes to mind when the former dean of Harvard Law School and confidant of three Democratic presidents says he became so engrossed in public affairs he never got around to filing returns until the lapse was called to his attention by Internal Revenue Service.

When that happened, he paid in full — everything he owed on $310,000 in income, which amounted to $84,492.36.

Sometimes when these tax stories hit the fan, we little taxpayers cringe, as in the case of pugilists who fall behind in their payments because they squandered all the money, or undercover operators who kept two sets of books and the feds got hold of the wrong set, hmm.

These stories don't add up for two-bit clients of IRS who are scared to death each year just before April 15 for fear they will forget to put down a few items they might be tempted to remember to leave out.

In fact, so many people are concerned about this that the good old government takes no chances but taps the little fellows at the source, collects what is coming to it and makes certain potential forgetters will not be exposed to temptation that might be too strong for them.

BUT IN THE case of James M. Landis, well-known figure in government, all circumstances were different. Here was no peanut taxpayer but a Very Important Personage accustomed to other Very Important Personages, all of them up to their armpits in Very Important Affairs.

Trouble

finances are suffering. Government employees are discontented with their pay cut.

Private and public investment has disappeared in the past two years. So has tourism, which produced roughly $8 million a year, about a quarter of the national budget. American dollar aid has been withdrawn. Beggars are everywhere.

Haiti's 4 million people, in a country the size of Maryland, live 300 to a square mile.

Columbus called the island—now divided into Haiti and the Dominican Republic — Hispaniola. But Haiti, the Indian word for Place of Mountains, stuck. Columbus loved the simple, gentle Indians he found there. He said "they love their neighbors as themselves."

Within 30 years most of the Indians were dead. When the Spaniards moved out, the French moved in. So did pirates, and Haiti was used as an unloading wharf for slaves from Africa.

In 1804 the slaves rose up, killed or drove out the whites, set up their own government, and chose an illiterate slave who had led them, Gen. Jean Jacques Dessalines, governor for life. He had himself crowned emperor, said "I, only I, am noble."

The island has had a bloody history of dictatorship, with very few good intervals, ever since.

In 1915, President Wilson set the Marines in and took over the country. Various reasons have been given, like wanting to keep the Germans from setting up a base there. President Roosevelt withdrew the Marines in 1934.

The Americans practiced racial discrimination, not only against the Negro masses but also against the mulattoes, who considered themselves the elite. If all Haitians do not love the United States, it's no wonder.

Swimmers Plan Meet

EAST PALESTINE — East Palestine swimmers will be host to a Lisbon team in a return Wednesday night at the City Park pool. Some 80 swimmers will participate in the meet which will begin at 9 p. m. with the public invited. Lisbon won the meet last week at the Lisbon pool.

Summitville Council

SUMMITVILLE — Council will meet Thursday night at 8. Mayor Ernest Phillips announced. The meeting was advanced from Aug. 15 because of planned vacations of some officials, he explained.

Girl Injured In Car Upset

A Lisbon area girl escaped with minor injuries and her East Liverpool area companion was unhurt but his 1963 convertible was damaged extensively when it overturned early this morning on Route 518 near West Point.

Linda Barnes, 18, daughter of Kenneth Barnes of Lisbon R. D. 2, was treated at City Hospital at 1:20 a. m. for small lacerations of the left knee and left elbow suffered in the one-car accident.

Carl E. Hoppel, 20, of East Liverpool R. D. 3 complained of a hip injury, according to the Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol, but the hospital said it had no record of emergency treatment for the driver.

The patrol said Hoppel was traveling on Route 518, about two miles west of West Point, when he lost control and the car went off the right side, crossed back to the left and overturned.

A Kensington woman was cited by the patrol for failing to stop within the assured clear distance after a minor collision with a farm tractor on Route 172, two miles west of Route 30, about 4 p. m. Monday, the patrol said.

Jacqueline Ann Cox, 20, was cited after the accident which involved the tractor operated by Donald Millhoan, 50, of Lisbon R. D. 4.

Both were headed west and the woman swerved to the right in an attempt to avoid striking the rear of the tractor. There was "very minor" damage to the woman's 1955 auto, the patrol said.

Motorist Forfeits

LISBON — Denzil R. Skinner, 29, of Orlando, W. Va., forfeited a $20 appearance bond Monday in County Judge James L. MacDonald's court on charges of passing at an intersection. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

ASC Group To Meet

LISBON — A meeting of the Columbiana County Agriculture, Stabilization and Conservation committee will be held tonight at 8 in the Village Hall, according to Earl Lora, office manager. The ASC election will be discussed, along with agriculture and conservation programs.

Lisbon Man Convicted In Gasoline Theft Try

LISBON — Edward Groff, 21, of 330 N. Market St., was fined $50 and costs Monday by Mayor Dean Stockman for attempted theft of gasoline from the Dunn Trucking Co.

Groff and George Dotson, 21, of the same address, and a 14-year old boy were arrested when caught stealing gas early Saturday morning. Dotson was fined $25 and costs for attempted larceny and $25 and costs for using fictitious plates on his vehicle Saturday by Mayor Stockman.

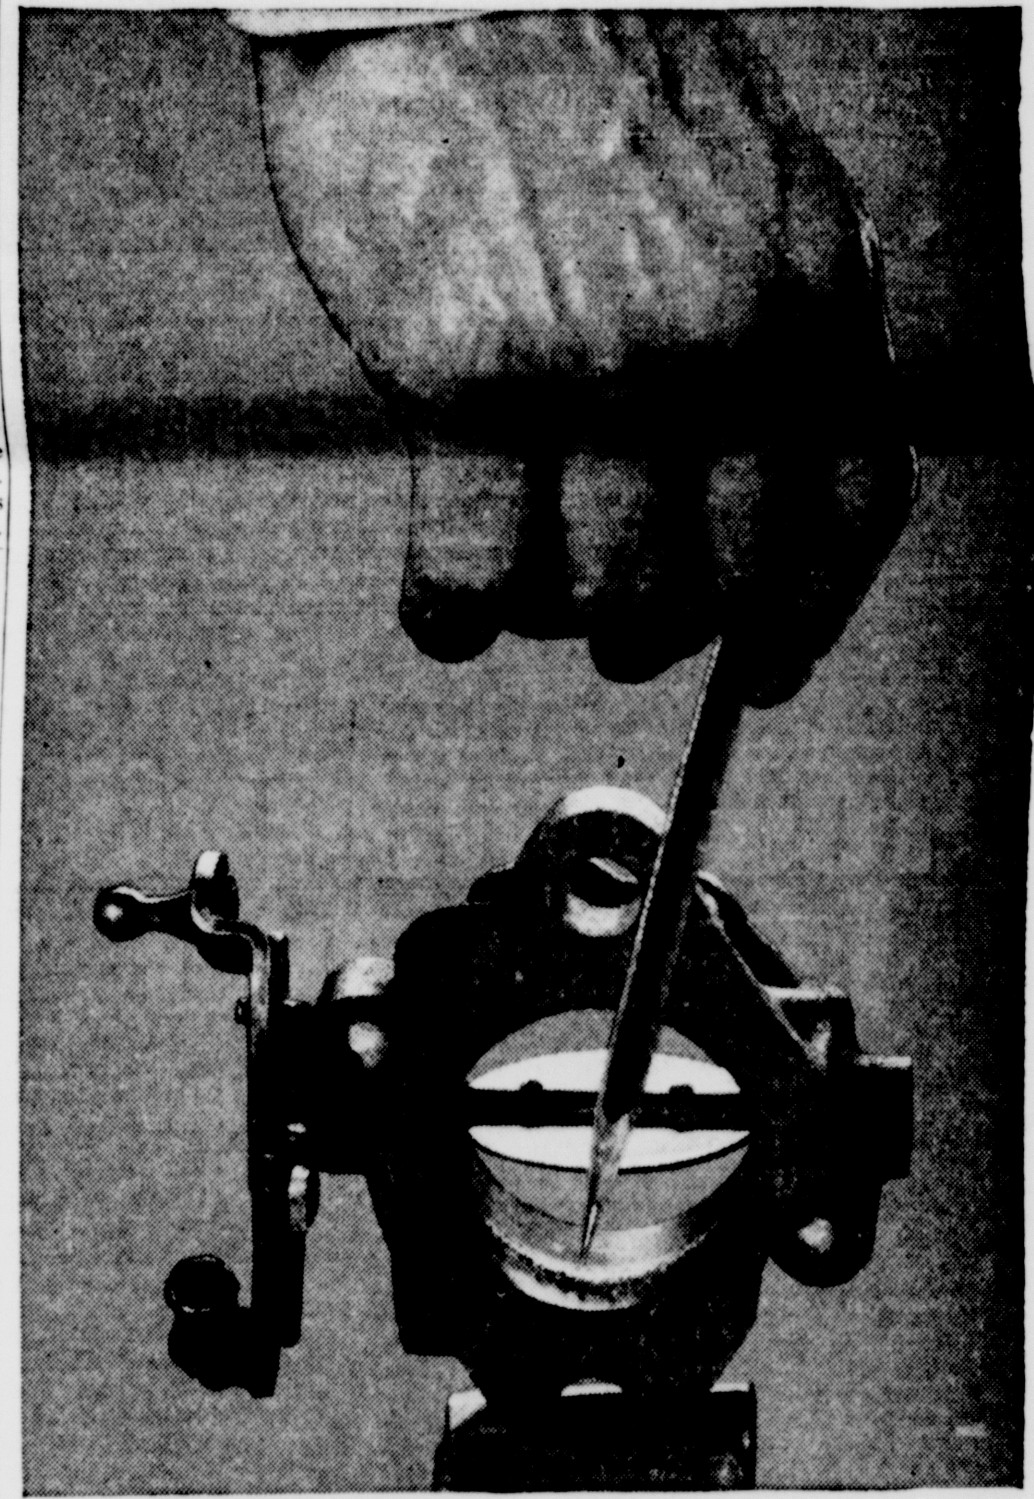

Police said the juvenile will get a hearing Aug. 15 before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin.

Dunn trucks, used to haul pipe for the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. pipe line project, are parked near the Ohio Hoist Co.

Carburetor deposits!

Just this much can cause stalling, rough idling, gasoline waste!

Boron

cleans carburetors

Boron has a special Carburetor Cleaner that removes carburetor deposits, keeps new deposits from forming!

Only a little deposit inside your carburetor can be a problem for you! Notice the hard ridge of deposit on the walls of the carburetor section above. When the throttle plate is open, as it is here, the deposit is no problem. But when the throttle plate is nearly closed, as it is when you're idling, this amount of deposit is enough to block the air flow to your engine. The result is stalling, rough idling and wasted gasoline! To remove carburetor deposits, a special, patented Carburetor Cleaner has been added to Boron Gasoline. This special Carburetor Cleaner dissolves dirt deposits and washes them away. Because the deposits are hard, this cleaning process may take time. But the end result will be a Boron Clean Carburetor!

Once your carburetor is clean, the special Carburetor Cleaner in Boron is so effective that, with regular use, it keeps new deposits from forming. So, always use Boron with its special Carburetor Cleaner!

Barbara J. Gray Becomes Bride At Lisbon Nuptials

The First Presbyterian Church of Lisbon was the scene of the marriage Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock of Miss Barbara Jean Gray and David Phillip Kuhns. The Rev. Paul T. Gerrard, pastor, officiated before the altar decorated by palms and baskets of white gladiolus.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Willis C. Gray of W. Lincoln Way and the late Mr. Gray. Mr. and Mrs. Knight Kuhns of W. Washington St. are the bridegroom's parents.

Given in marriage by her brother, Kenneth E. Gray of Toledo, the bride wore a white satin-sheer gown, fashioned with scoop neckline and short sleeves.

The bell-shaped, ballerina-length skirt was designed with a self-fabric rose. A matching rose, attached to a silk pillow, held her short veil of illusion and she wore the bridegroom's gift, a pearl necklace and earrings. She carried a bouquet arrangement of stephanotis and ivy, centered by a white orchid.

Mrs. Kenneth E. Gray served her sister-in-law as matron of honor. Her gown of coral silk organza had a square neckline and high-lighting the bell-shaped, ballerina-length skirt were self-fabric roses. She wore a coral crown, embroidered with pearls, and her Colonial bouquet was of coral and white roses.

The bride's mother was attired in a Navy blue chiffon dress with navy and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a sheer knit dress of navy and her accessories were navy and pink. Their corsages were of white roses.

Richard Kuhns of Lisbon was his brother's best man.

A dinner at Timberlane's at Salem, for the wedding guests, followed the ceremony.

For the reception in the social room of the church at 7:30 o'clock, the bride's table was covered with white lace, centered by a five-tiered cake topped by miniature bride and groom. Around the base were individual gladiolus and ivy.

Serving were Miss Barbara Wetzel and Mrs. Richard Kuhns, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, both of Lisbon. Mrs. Samuel S. Drakulich of Salem, assisted by Mrs. Carol Page, Miss Marcia Kuhns, niece of the bridegroom, both of Lisbon, and Mrs. Clarence E. Bowman of Salem. Mrs. Gail M. McCune of Lisbon registered the guests.

The bride is a graduate of David Anderson High School, attended Mt. Union College and has been employed as a secretary of the Mullins Manufacturing Corp. of Salem.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of David Anderson High, is sales representative of Becton, Dickinson & Co. of Rutherford, N. J., for the Cleveland area.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the newlyweds will reside at Strongsville, where they have purchased a new home.

Golden Star

Aides Named By Scranton In New Move

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Scranton Monday reapportioned more than a score of Republicans to top state boards, commissions and agencies whom the Senate Democrats refused to confirm.

Scranton acted under a provision of the state constitution which permits interim appointments while the legislature is not in session. The 1963 legislature adjourned last Saturday.

Interim appointees may serve until confirmed by two-thirds majority of the Senate, or until the end of the next regular session, at which time they may be appointed for further interim service.

Democrats in the Senate refused to supply votes for the necessary two-thirds confirmation because all of the Republicans would have replaced Democrats in the state jobs.

Among the top posts filled were positions on the Milk Control, Public Utility, Turnpike and Securities Commissions and an Erie County judgeship.

Maurice H. Claster, New Kensington, a former PUC examiner, was named to succeed Robert W. Anthony, Altoona Democrat, for a 10-year term on the Public Utility Commission. The post pays $19,000 a year.

Lester F. Burlein, Honesdale, was chosen to succeed Democrat Roy E. Furman, Waynesburg, for a 10-year term on the Turnpike Commission at $15,000 a year.

Burlein's appointment leaves the Turnpike Commission in Democratic control by a 3-2 margin. However, Democrat Commissioner John F. Byrne is under suspension pending the outcome of perjury charges against him in a Philadelphia investigation.

Claster's appointment leaves the Utility Commission also under 3-2 control of Democrats.

Herbert J. Johnson Jr., Erie, was named Orphans Court judge for Erie County to serve until the first Monday in January, 1964. His name originally was placed in nomination in the Senate last Feb. 5.

Three top Democrats were displaced as Scranton named a completely new slate for the State Securities Commission. Displaced were John R. Torquato, Johnstown, Cambria County Democratic chairman; James J. Connor, Glenolden, Delaware County Democratic chairman, and Frank N. Happ, Pittsburgh.

Suspension Ordered For Driver's License

William Boyd, 19, of Price St., was fined $50 and costs and given a 90-day suspension of his operator's permit when he pleaded guilty Monday afternoon before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Cherstoff on a reckless driving charge.

Boyd was cited on a warrant by Patrolman William A. Devon, who said he observed the alleged violation Saturday night on Mierva St., Walnut St. and Bradshaw Ave. The officers said he was on foot at the time and unable to take the motorist into custody.

The patrolman's affidavit alleged that Boyd made a turn in an alley off Mierva St. "peeling" the tires on his car; drove at a high rate of speed on Walnut St. and crashed a traffic light at Walnut St. and Bradshaw Ave., then turned up Bradshaw Ave. at a high rate of speed.

10 Attend Annual Conclave

3 In DeMolays Get State Awards

Three members of Harding Chapter, Order of DeMolay, received awards at the 38th annual DeMolay Conclave Friday through Sunday in Columbus.

Eckert, a senior DeMolay and operator of Eckert's Camera Mart, received the Legion of Honor award, highest award granted by the International Supreme Council.

Hicks of South Surry Road, Fisher Park, immediate past state master counselor, received the Distinguished Service Award for his jurisdiction of Ohio for the period ending May 31. He was recognized as the outstanding DeMolay in the state for that quarter.

Brokaw, son of County Prosecuting Atty. and Mrs. G. William Brokaw, 1316 Perry Ave., was elected president of the Representative DeMolay Club of Ohio.

Ten from the local chapter attended the conclave. Brent English placed second in the 50-yard and 100-yard free-style swimming events. Homer Hoffman, Dad advisor of the chapter, represented the 6th District of Ohio as its governor pro tem and his son, David Hoffman, was appointed a member of the George M. Corder Award Committee of the Representative DeMolay Club.

Eckert joined Harding Chapter in 1931 and served as scribe and a member of the traveling degree team before receiving his Chevalier award. He is a member of Riddle Masonic Lodge and its Fellowcraft Degree team. A member of Trinity United Presbyterian Church, he has served as deacon and elder and is chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Eckert is serving his second term as chairman of the City Planning Commission and is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce. He is a past president of the Retail Merchants' Association and is chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Red Cross chapter.

He was active in the chapter's water safety program this summer. Eckert has also been active in Boy Scouting and is a member of Disabled American Veterans. Eckert resides at 338 Thompson Ave., and he and his wife have sponsored a Youth Group at the church for 10 years.

Eckert received the award as a past DeMolay and in recognition of community service. Six others from Ohio received the highest award. Fourteen honorary degrees were given to Masons.

Dr. Ivan H. Northfield of Duluth, 33rd Degree Mason and a grand master of the International Supreme Council, conferred the award on the 21 candidates at the Deshler - Hilton Hotel. Eckert's family and chapter members were present.

At the conclusion of the Legion of Honor ceremony, Dr. Northfield presented Hicks with the outstanding DeMolay award. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hicks, he is a past master counselor of the local chapter. At the closing banquet Sunday, Hicks was presented with an engraved gold watch from the Ohio State Council in recognition of his services as state master counselor.

Brokaw was elected president of the Representative DeMolay Club on Saturday. He is a charter member of the chapter, reactivated in 1958, and is a student at Marietta College. The Representative DeMolay award is the highest a DeMolay can receive upon his own request and on his own initiative. It is given for all-around development.

About 1,400 DeMolays and advisors attended the convention. Carl H. Fischer Jr. of Fairborn was elected state master counselor to succeed Hicks. The new state "sweetheart" is Sherri Glass of Newark.

The 1964 convention will be held Aug. 13-16 at the Netherland-Hilton Hotel in Cincinnati.

Liquor Agent Kills Suspect

CLEVELAND (AP)—A 28-year-old Parma Heights man was shot and killed early today in a gun battle with a state liquor enforcement agent, who was wounded.

The dead man was identified tentatively as William T. Snyder. He died of a gunshot wound in the head. The shot was fired by Ralph E. Krieger, 41, the liquor agent, who suffered arm and chest wounds.

Parma Heights police were investigating the shooting.

Initial reports indicated Krieger and a Parma Heights patrolman were chasing Snyder's auto from a supermarket.

The two law officers caught up with the Snyder car in the Yorktown shopping center. Police said Snyder got out of his car and fired his revolver at Krieger and the patrolman.

Krieger was struck in the left forearm and his left chest. His return fire struck Snyder in the head, killing him.

'Master Plan' Contract Due For Study

Members of the City Planning Commission, meeting Monday night at City Hall, agreed to give further consideration Aug. 23 to a contract with a consulting engineering concern for preparation of a "master plan" to guide East Liverpool's growth and development.

Proposals that have been received from seven concerns will be copied in Engineer George S. Bloomgren's office today, then sent to each member of the commission for study prior to the next meeting. The proposed costs run from $20,000 to nearly $40,000.

The commission held a long series of meetings to hear proposals from various concerns seeking a contract to prepare the plan. Earlier this year, Council appropriated more than $7,000 as the city's first phase of the cost.

At its next meeting, the commission also expects to select four East Liverpool members to represent the city in a new County Regional Planning Organization with which the municipality is affiliated.

Each member of the local commission is to propose the names of three persons for membership on the regional group. The commission agreed one of the representatives should be named from its own membership—preferably one of the so-called "citizen" members, as distinguished from officials who serve on the planning group by virtue of municipal office.

Attending were Don Eckert, chairman, Mayor Bert H. Goodballet, E. L. Wheatley, George Steele and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen. Absent were Judge Louis Tobin and William Rea.

The mayor explained that Rea finds it difficult to attend sessions on Monday night — because two church groups with which he is affiliated also meet on Monday. The commission then set its next meeting for Aug. 23, which falls on a Friday.

Firemen At Irondale Will Sponsor Social

IRONDALE — The volunteer fire department will sponsor a social and bake sale Friday at 5 p. m. on the vacant lot adjacent to the Post Office.

Chief Oliver Nicholson said proceeds will be used to help pay for the department's second fire truck. Firemen will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 at the fire station.

Council Aims Rogers Post

ROGERS — Discussion of appointment of a village marshal and the need for industry within the village highlighted a meeting of Council Monday night.

A replacement is needed for William Barnhouse, who resigned as marshal in April. Sidney Cowan, Robert Whitacre and Thurman Mercer have applied for the post.

Discussion centered on the applicants and the salary. Barnhouse received $1.25 an hour.

Council requested Mayor Robert McCreary to appoint a marshal soon. The mayor said later he would fill the post "within the month."

Councilmen also aimed the need to seek industry for the community to aid the economic foundation of the village.

Albert Starkey, street supervisor, asked whether grass should be mowed on the railroad property along Depot St. which the village is purchasing. Council instructed him to mow the grass.

Bills totaling $207 were paid. Councilmen Glenn Baker, on vacation, was absent. Next meeting is Sept. 3.

Council as soon as a meeting date has been arranged with the highway director. At the meeting Friday, Councilmen S. James Welch, Floyd Murray and Kenneth C. Berg, chairman of the street committee, indicated that they plan to attend. Any other councilmen who wish to attend will be invited, the mayor said.

Engineer George S. Bloomgren also will go to the conference, along with a representative of Glaus, Pyle & Schomer, the Youngstown consulting engineering firm that drew up detailed plans and specifications for the St. Clair project under contract with the city.

The Youngstown concern estimated the project at $604,000 last December. Bloomgren then confirmed the figure unofficially with the New Philadelphia office of the Highway Department. In response to a query from the city engineer, the Division 11 officials said they felt the estimate was "safe."

The crux of the city's negotiations now concerns the state's request that enabling legislation must be enacted, guaranteeing that the municipality's share of the money is available, before contractors' bids are opened. The bid-opening is set for Aug. 27 or at least it was scheduled on that date before the latest impasse arrived.

Since the estimate on the job went to $846,780, the mayor asked the Highway Department to go ahead with the bid opening before the city put up its share. Then, if the city felt the project would be too costly from its standpoint, it would ask the Highway Department to drop the plans.

The mayor pointed out actual contract prices frequently are under the state's estimates and the project still might fall in a price range the city could afford.

The mayor first made the request verbally to Nelson in New Philadelphia, then made it official in a formal letter sent the division director the following day. Nelson said he would have to check with the central office.

In his reply received yesterday, Nelson reiterated the state's earlier position that the city's money must be guaranteed before the bids can be opened.

Nelson said the Highway Department requires that enabling legislation must be enacted, along with a certificate from City Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate that the municipality's share of the cost is available.

Nelson reiterated the central office cannot revise its estimate and cannot call for bids until the city's share of the funds is available.

He added that Levi (Jack) Kimble of the New Philadelphia office discussed the question with Bloomgren and the two decided that it might be possible to shorten the length of the St. Clair work or cut it into two projects so it would be within the city's ability to pay.

Nelson said he will be glad to discuss these two possibilities with city officials.

The unexpected revision in the project's cost, in effect, stalled plans for the improvement after nearly four years of planning and negotiation.

The Highway Department is acting only as agent for the Federal Bureau of Public Roads in the project, as no state funds are involved. The U. S. agency, by adding St. Clair to its federal aid secondary system, guaranteed that it would finance half the project cost.

Plans call for a new 36-foot reinforced concrete pavement with a complete storm drainage system.

When Councilmen said Friday night they fear the increased cost may kill plans for the project, Bloomgren said he will draw plans for a shorter improvement with a narrower pavement, if Council desires. He suggested a 24-foot pavement stretching from Riverview Cemetery to the north city limits near Cain St.

Council Rejects Bids For Lisbon Street Job

LISBON — Council at a special meeting Monday night rejected two bids received for blacktopping of S. Market St. from Washington south to the new bridge over Little Beaver Creek.

Council decided the bids were out of proportion and will readvertise for the project.

Council's regular meeting will be held Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the Village Hall.

Houston Deals Giants 6-5 Setback In Ninth Inning

Warwick's 2-Out Single Key Blow

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer

Woodeshick and Warwick may sound like a vaudeville team but they amuse the San Francisco Giants not, at all.

In fact, there was only gloom in the Giants' dressing room after the Colts' Hal Woodeshick and Carl Warwick finished their act at Houston Monday night.

It wasn't a standard performance. Each did something he either didn't want to do or wasn't expected to do. But when it was all over, they were the key figures in Houston's 6-5 victory over the Giants in the only game scheduled in the major leagues.

Woodeshick, a relief pitcher, gave up a home run to Willie Mays, something relief pitchers don't like to do. But he came out of it the winner.

And Warwick, a light-hitting outfielder, was inserted for defensive purposes in the eighth when Houston had a 4-2 lead. But he wound up the winning run with a two-out single in the ninth.

The loss spoiled the Giants' hopes of making up a little ground on National League-leading Los Angeles and dropped them back to a tie for second with St. Louis, five games off the pace.

The Colts, leading 4-2, appeared to be on the way to an easy victory when starter Don Nottbart ran into trouble in the eighth.

Willie McCovey led off with his 33rd homer of the season and Mays followed with a single. Woodeshick came on, making his 39th appearance of the season. A single by Orlando Cepeda and a Colt error let in the tying run, but Woodeshick struck out the last two men to end the inning.

He struck out two more in the top of the ninth before Mays crashed his 28th homer into the left centerfield stands for a 5-4 Giants lead.

European Net Title Is Won By Britains

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Britain reigned today as tennis champion of Europe for the first time in 30 years—and the fans started talking again of the golden days of Fred Perry.

Mike Sangster, the 22-year-old star who revels in a tight situation, took Britain to a 3-2 victory over Sweden Monday and a place in the interzone finals of the Davis Cup. He defeated Sweden's Ulf Schmidt 7-5, 6-2, 9-11, 3-6, 6-3 in the last match of the European final.

The last time Britain won the European Zone was in 1933 when Perry was in his prime. Perry and his team went on to win the Davis Cup three times running.

British tennis officials began tackling the problem of finding a venue for the next series. That will be in Britain against the winner of the American Zone—either the United States or Mexico, although the winner has to overcome Venezuela.

Springfielders Given Edge In Public Links

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Host professional Ed Logue and three amateur partners, including his son Jim, have furnished pretty good evidence that Springfielders may be hard to beat on their home course in the annual Ohio Public Links Golf Tournament opening Wednesday.

With Jim Logue and Jim Stokes firing two-under-par 70s, the four- some rounded out by the senior Logue and Ron Stokes posted a best-ball 62 in Monday's 18-hole pro-amateur tuneup. That tally, two strokes ahead of their nearest rivals in competition among 34 quartets, earned Ed Logue $100 cash and his buddies $90 apiece in merchandise prizes.

The event was held at Reid Memorial Park, the 6,749 - yard course on which the public links tourney, which has attracted 240 entrants, will be played.

In another tuneup today, an amateur-amateur event for two-man teams was scheduled at Snyder Park.

Heckathorn's Dogs Capture Top Prizes

Two dogs owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heckathorn of Hillcrest Rd., Wellsville won top prizes in the McKinley Kennel Club show Sunday at East Canton.

In the puppy match, Rob-Mar's Ardis was first in the 9-12 month class and also was named winner's bitch. Rob-Mar's Angie was second in the 9-12 month class.

Arizona and Evansville (Ind.) will meet on the basketball court for the first time next December.

Baseball's Shrine List Reaches 94

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — It was a dark, dreary afternoon, but the brightest day of their lives for two old men.

"This is a bigger day than any I ever had before," said 87-year-old Elmer Flick after he and Sam Rice, 71, and the late Eppa Rixey and John Clarkson were inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame Monday.

The four, who boosted membership to 94, were elected in January by the committee on oldtimers who consider only men out of baseball for at least 20 years.

Members of the Baseball Writers Association, who consider the younger retired players, vote every other year and did not vote in 1963.

Following the morning ceremonies the Boston Red Sox beat the Milwaukee Braves 7-3 in the annual Hall of Fame exhibition game. Billy Gardner and Dick Williams hit homers for the winners, Hank Aaron for the losers.

The victory pulled the American League into a tie in the series, 10-10, with one tie.

Rice, of Ashton, Ind., was an outstanding outfielder and hitter for Washington from 1915 to 1933 and finished with Cleveland in 1934. He had 2,987 hits and a lifetime average of .322.

Flick, of Warrensville, Ohio, played from 1898 through 1910 in both major leagues. He won the American League batting championship in 1905 with a .306 average and retired with a .315 lifetime mark.

Rixey's plaque was accepted by his widow, who lives in Cincinnati, where the lanky left-hander spent most of his major league career. He won 266 games for the Reds and Philadelphia from 1912 to 1933 and died a few days after his election this year.

Clarkson, a big winner before the turn of the century, once won 53 games in a single season. He died in 1909. His plaque was accepted by a nephew, Frederick Clarkson of Meriden, Conn.

Ohio Valley, Colonial Eye Playoff Spot

Colonial Grill and Ohio Valley will be battling it out tonight at 6 for fourth place and a chance to gain the playoffs in the Slow Pitch League.

Both won Monday as Colonial Grill eliminated Wellsville Elks, 13-8. Jim (Big Train) Harris was the winning hurler while Norm Six blasted two home runs. Jim Potts one home run and Larry Foltz collected four hits.

Platt blasted a pair of round-trippers for the Wellsville Elks while Russell, the losing hurler, connected for one.

Griffin hit two circuit blows and Harvey Fisher had one in Ohio Valley's 14-10 victory over East End.

Leo Pearson smacked four hits for East End and Marv Pack homered twice.

Parley Held On Disputed Rail Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in weeks, railroad and union representatives face each other today across the bargaining table, a sign that negotiators believe they have chipped an opening in the deadlock over jobs.

"In another 24 to 48 hours, we should know whether we're shadow-boxing or really making progress," J. E. Wolfe, the carriers' chief negotiator, said Monday night.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz called today's joint meetings after lengthy sessions Monday with each side.

He refused, however, to say whether any progress had been made.

Meetings were set up between the carriers and the representatives of the engine crews—engineers and firemen—and between the carriers and the train crew unions—conductors, brakemen and switchmen.

Wirtz said he would be on hand for both but also has to appear before a closed session of the House Commerce Committee which is keeping an eye on negotiations while studying President Kennedy's legislative recommendations for settling the work rules dispute.

To avert a strike over new work rules—designed to eliminate thousands of rail jobs, principally those of diesel freight firemen—Kennedy suggested turning the dispute over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The unions strongly opposed the Kennedy plan, calling the ICC management-oriented. The carriers supported it.

To give Congress time to act, the carriers postponed the new work rules until Aug. 29.

The Senate committee received a statement Monday from the railroads which was termed a supplemental rebuttal to union arguments against the President's proposals.

"The parties are at an impasse and the national interest is threatened," said the statement. It said some action must be taken and only the legislative branch can take it.

The railroads charged that the unions oppose the administration bill "because it will accomplish exactly what they meticulously and methodically avoided for 4½ years, settlement of the dispute."

A Labor Department spokesman said Monday's sessions concerned the dispute's two chief issues: the firemen's jobs and the make-up of train crews.

3 Areas Reveal Job Level Rises

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department, noting moderate improvement in the unemployment picture, has reclassified the Canton, Ohio; Huntington, W. Va.; Ashland, Ky., and Altoona, Pa., areas to reflect less joblessness.

Canton moved in July from the substantial unemployment category, 6 to 9 per cent of the working force unemployed, to a moderate unemployment classification of 3 to 6 per cent. The department attributed improved job conditions in the Canton area to increased steel production along with continued rises in nondurable manufacturing.

Huntington-Ashland and Altoona shifted in July from 9 to 12 per cent unemployed to 6 to 9 per cent. Gains in cement, construction and glass production were cited for the pickup in Huntington-Ashland.

Thief Gets Tires Off Tractor Rig

Four new tires valued at $119 each were stolen from a truck tractor parked in the building of the Seaford Mineral & Ore Co., 1253 Pennsylvania Ave., police were told Monday.

Total loss in the burglary was $675, including two tarpaulins valued at $50 each, six truck cash binders valued at $50 and six binder chains also worth $50, officers said.

Gaining entrance through a large door on the west side of the building, the intruder jacked up the tractor rig and removed the four tires, including the rims, police said.

The intruder then went to the rear of the building and removed the tarpaulins, chains and binders, officers said. The burglary was reported at 8:45 a. m. yesterday.

Lisbon Trucker Cited In Collision With Car

LISBON — Homer McPherson, 604 E. Lincoln Way, was cited following a collision of a truck and car Monday at 1 p. m. just north of the Public Square on N. Market St., police reported.

Alma Azdel of St. Clair Ave., East Liverpool, had stopped her car for traffic congestion and McPherson struck it in the rear.

Police reported about $25 damage to car and none to truck. McPherson was cited for failure to stop within the assured clear distance by police Chief Leon Zahndt.

Militant Negroes

★ ★ ★ Moderates Spurned In Impatience

A new Negro militancy is apparent as voices of responsible moderates are drowned out by radicals who preach an inflammatory approach to racial equality. Here is a closeup of the militant Negro movement. Seventh in a special Associated Press series on the racial crisis.

By JUNIUS GRIFFIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Voices of moderation in Northern and Southern Negro communities are muffled.

In vogue is a Negro militancy, conceived in frustration and impatience.

Radical organizations preaching inflammatory tactics have emerged in ghettos where most Northern Negroes live.

In the South, the militant leadership seeks to organize largely uneducated would-be followers into concerted action.

If the moderate Negro in the South or North speaks against demonstrations that might result in violence, he often is branded an "Uncle Tom" and a coward. For a Negro to express a moderate view on any civil rights issue is to risk his reputation and perhaps his personal safety.

An example of the radicals' vehemence was evident in Chicago when James H. Meredith and the Rev. J. H. Jackson, president of a Negro Baptist convention, counseled a conservative course at the convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Meredith, who risked his life and the safety of his family to establish the right of a Negro to attend the University of Mississippi, was attacked by a youthful wing of the NAACP with such bitterness that he admitted publicly: "I wept my first tears since I was a child."

Jackson, head of the largest Negro religious organization in the nation, narrowly escaped injury before being escorted from the convention.

Sam Riley, Chicago chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality resigned his post, saying, "I'm sick of sit-ins and picket lines."

Riley's resignation came in protest against what he termed the "ultramilitant tactics of the kids" in the organization. "I prefer to plan and negotiate," Riley said.

It was militant civil rights demonstrations in Cambridge, Md., during June and July that split the Eastern Shore town and then brought it back together when violent racial conflict threatened.

The Cambridge demonstrations caused President Kennedy to comment:

"I am concerned about these demonstrations. I think they go beyond information, beyond protest, and they get into a very bad situation when you get violence, and I think the cause of advancing equal opportunities only loses. So I have warned against demonstrations which could lead to bloodshed, and I warn now against them."

The President added, however, "You just can't tell people, 'don't protest'—but on the other hand, 'We're not going to let you come into a store or restaurant.'"

"The way to make the problem go away," the President said, "is to provide for redress of grievances."

A militancy similar to that in Cambridge moved north to Brooklyn where Negro ministers gathered their congregations from the ghettos of Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section, described as a "wasteland in the heart of New York."

The militant Negro ministers vowed to lead their entire congregations to jail, if necessary, in pressing their demand for more jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans on publicly financed construction projects.

In Savannah, Ga., where National Guardsmen were summoned to quell racial demonstrations, Dr. William Payne, president of Savannah State College for Negroes, refused to make public statements on the situation. The city's Negro community branded him an "Uncle Tom."

The influence of the radicals is apparent in the attack on "the big four" action groups for equal rights. This attack is led by radical organizations such as the Black Muslims and a variety of African nationalist associations.

These organizations have attracted larger gatherings on Harlem street corners on occasion than the combined forces of the NAACP, the Congress of Racial Equality, the southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee.

The success of radical elements in Negro communities is due partly to their ability to identify with grass-roots elements.

Dr. Martin Luther King, at a recent public appearance in Harlem, was greeted with a barrage of eggs from Negroes before he entered a church.

King, and leaders of the other "big four" groups are constantly referred to as "Uncle Toms" by the radical leadership in Harlem.

One radical explains the popularity of the extremist movement:

"We give the forgotten man a dignity that the NAACP, CORE and the other groups deny him. We let him know that he is just as important as the middle-class Negro who wants to ignore his presence in the community."

This "forgotten man," the radical leader says, "is bitter and ready to fight somebody. If he wants to fight, he might as well join an organization that will guide him in the right direction."

For the African nationalist, the "right direction" is back to Africa.

Most Negro leaders do not share the idea that Negroes will support organizations that preach a "back to Africa" movement.

But some NAACP officials acknowledge that the nationalists are a thorn in the side for conservative leaders.

NAACP membership is about 4,000 in Harlem, a community of more than a half million Negroes. Most members pay dues and carry membership cards but do not attend meetings.

Who leads the community and pulls the strings?

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D. N.Y., exercises control of a large element from the pulpit of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, the Harlem Democratic Club and a variety of civic organizations of which he is sponsor.

The Harlem Democrat attacks the presence of white men in positions of authority in the "big four" civil rights organizations and recently has been vocal in his support of Malcolm X, Harlem's Black Muslim leader.

Malcolm X attracts thousands with tirades against the white man. But Negroes more often than not leave his rallies without having found solutions to their problems.

A young Negro leaving a Muslim rally commented:

"I dig this cat. But I am not about to become a Black Muslim. I've never been to Africa and don't want to go. I don't care for his religion. What I need is a job so I can make some bread (money)."

About 13 per cent of Harlem's labor force is unemployed. This represents more than twice the percentage for the city of New York at large.

Asked if he had sought employment through the Urban League and other organizations, the young man replied: "I don't even know where their offices are."

Many volunteered: "I don't know and I don't care."

Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, said recently: "The other organizations furnish the noise and get the publicity while the NAACP furnishes the manpower and pays the bills."

Whitney Young Jr., Urban League director, said "I do not see why I should have to go to jail to prove my leadership."

His organization seeks civil rights progress through bi-racial consultation and cooperation.

James Farmer, CORE's national director, said "Its going to be a long hot summer. Spontaneous demonstrations are going to be a problem. Our job is to channelize them constructively."

To a great extent, the frictions among these major groups offer no real threat to Negro solidarity on fundamental aims.

Air Force Backs Trainer Project

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Air Force Systems Command—in a move hinted at a month ago—has agreed to underwrite renewed efforts to modify the propeller-driven T28A training plane for use in brush fire warfare.

The work, estimated to take six months, will be done at North American Aviation Inc.'s Columbus division. This is where the first such modification was done in late 1962 and early this year.

That model, known as the YAT-28E, crashed in Ohio March 27, killing North American test pilot George W. Hoskins.

Further modification is a continuation of the $735,000 contract awarded North American a year ago, information specialist George G. Sturgiss of the Air Force Systems Command said in Dayton. He said additional funding amounts to more than $1 million.

African Chiefs Urged To Seek U.N. Action

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — African government chiefs should attend the next U.N. General Assembly session, Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella says, and demand an end to Portuguese colonialism and racial repression in South Africa and Southern Rhodesia.

Ben Bella spoke at a conference of 31 African foreign ministers Monday.

NAACP Sets Session For Rights Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro leaders and white sympathizers gather today for a strategy conference designed to assure passage of civil rights legislation.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People called the three-day meeting of several hundred persons from around the country to:

1. Enable them to meet with their members of Congress and stress their desire for "meaningful civil rights legislation."

2. Plan "continuous grass roots activity" in the states to build popular sentiment for the legislation and convey this sentiment to Congress.

Among those listed to speak at the sessions were several Congress members and churchmen of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths.

The sessions are distinct from the big "march for jobs and freedom" which six civil rights organizations, including the NAACP, are planning for Aug. 28. In this demonstration, an estimated 100,000 to 250,000 Negroes and Whites are to gather near the Washington Monument and march to the Lincoln Memorial, a half mile away, for exercises and speeches.

Discussing this march Monday, Dr. Walter Fauntroy, Washington coordinator of the demonstration, indicated that if Congress should decide to take a long Labor Day recess and thus be out of town Aug. 28, the demonstration would be postponed. But the director of information for the march, Sy Posner, said in New York: "The march will be held rain or shine on the 28th whether Congress is in session or not."

There had been some indications that Congress might be in recess, but latest signs are that it will be here Aug. 28.

Youths Ordered Bound Over In Cleveland Attack

CLEVELAND (AP)—Three Negro youths, who police say have admitted taking part in an attack on a white couple in Sowinski Park, face grand jury action and possible trial as adults.

Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Wolman, concluding a 13-day hearing Monday, ordered three other Negro youths implicated in the attack to serve reformatory terms.

The boys sentenced to Boys Industrial School for the June 12 assault are 13, 14 and 15 years old. Judge Wolman said he would study probation and psychiatric reports before determining the length of the sentences.

The youths whose cases go to the grand jury are 16 and 17.

The attack on Thomas A. Giffin, 18, and his 15-year-old girl friend at the playground area set off a series of racial incidents. The Negroes were charged with assault with intent to kill Giffin and the girl and with having carnal knowledge of the girl.

Former City Resident Named Chief In FAA

James Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coleman of Harding Ave., has been promoted to chief of the Federal Aviation Agency flight service station at Bluefield, W. Va.

He has been with FAA for 12 years and was employed as the supervisor at the flight service station at Columbus.

Coleman is a graduate of East Liverpool High School and is married to the former Betty Hood of Chester. They have five children. He just returned from a training program at Jamaica, N. Y., and is scheduled to take over his new position Aug. 19.

Hearing Set On Township Water Plans

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp, presiding judge for 1963, authorized Judge Raymond S. Buzzard to hold a preliminary hearing Sept. 5, at 9 a. m. on petition to organize and establish a regional water and sewer district in portions of St. Clair and Liverpool Townships.

Columbiana County commissioners July 26 requested the court to establish a regional water and sewer district in the 14-square-mile area in the townships, in Sections 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 20, 21, 22, 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 in St. Clair Township, and the north half of Section 32, the northwest quarters of Sections 33 and 35, and the northeast quarter of Section 34, all in Liverpool Township.

Residents have been working toward a public water and sewer system for several years. The water table level has dropped because of the number of wells and some of the water is "bacteriologically unsafe." Many of the lots were laid out years ago and do not meet present Health Board requirements concerning distances between wells and disposal facilities.

The governing group will be a five-member Board of Trustees. Two members would be appointed for five year terms — one by Common Pleas Court from those living nearest the proposed district office in St. Clair Township, and one by the Probate Court. County commissioners would appoint a trustee for four years. The three trustees then would elect the fourth and fifth members for three-year terms. After the original appointments, all terms are to be for four years. Trustees will be paid $36 annually.

According to law, commissioners said the trustees will have full authority to raise the money and build the water and sewer system. The board will need approximately $6,000 to cover expenses for the first six to 12 months.

West Virginia Slates Strip Mine Surveying

CHARLESTON — A combined survey of oak wilt and strip mines in West Virginia is expected to save tax payers in the state about $45,000, Natural Resources Director Warden M. Lane said Monday.

The combined survey should also result in the first accurate estimate of strip mine acreage ever made in the state.

The survey crews will use aircraft to look for strip mines as they search for oak wilt throughout West Virginia.

HERE'S WHY POTTERS SAVINGS & LOAN IS FIRST IN HOME LOANS IN THIS AREA

LOW COST

Smart home buyers find they can save money on a home loan by "going conventional" at Potters Savings & Loan. No points to pay, better tax break . . . and our modest 6% is one of the lowest interest rates in the area.

VERSATILITY

Potters Savings tailors loans with extra specialty features you'll like. For instance, our "open end" loan lets you borrow additional money on the same loan if you should need it for a worthy cause in the future. We also make available loan insurance in the monthly payment, if you wish.

CONVENIENCE

Our payment-by-mail plan saves you time and travel. Those who wish to pay in person find our downtown location and drive-in window especially convenient.

FAST SERVICE

We handle every home loan application with prompt and personal attention. You'll like our quick, confidential way of doing things.

SECURITY

You get that great feeling of confident home ownership because you are backed by The Potters Savings & Loan Co. whose reputation for trust has been unchallenged since 1889.

FRIENDLY, THOROUGH EXPLANATIONS

People like the way we take time to explain fully all aspects of home financing. No rush-rush . . . no hurry to "sign now!" We know we can help you make the wisest decision on financing. We feel confident you'll choose us when you're ready for home ownership — most folks do.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

The Old Counter-Puncher

"Do you know anything about trolley horses, Henry?"

Durward Kirby sat sprawled at the table that had a microphone on it—a red-faced giant up from the valley to do a final batch of radio recordings with Henry Morgan.

Henry h a d nothing to say about trolley horses, which is remarkable in itself, but went on to talk about New York City's sewer system and a man named Smelly Kelly, whose job it was to sniff out trouble down there.

Durward spoke—and with complete seriousness—about the alligators that abound in the sewers.

"I'VE NEVER seen 'em," Henry said.

"What do you say," Kirby said, "that we do one program just saying whatever comes into mind?"

"Nah," Morgan muttered, gestured toward the mike, "I'd become intimidated."

They were in trouble. The writer of the Garry Moore CBS radio show—and until next Monday Morgan is Moore's vacation replacement—is a keen and adept fellow named Andy Rooney, who sloped about the studio with a Sherlock Holmes pipe clenched grimly in his teeth; and poor Rooney didn't have a promising theme for the last two scripts of the day.

So while Rooney repaired to his typewriter in search of inspiration, Morgan and Kirby tossed some ideas about.

"Tell me place names and I'll tell you where they come from," Henry said, and Kirby tossed "Alabama" at him.

MORGAN SAID that all the early American towns had names like Dead Man's crossing, which was a translation from the Indian. And one day the settlers got sophisticated and said, "Gee, you can't live in a place called Dead Man's Crossing."

So they reached back to classical Greek names "to be classy" and called their town Troy or Albany or Athens.

"Albuquerque," Kirby suggested.

"The heck with that," said Morgan. "It's Indian is all I know. Means 'where-we-are-in-old-New-Mexico.'"

The conversation got around to Alaska, a place Morgan doesn't want to visit because "it's growing and soon it'll have the troubles everybody else gets into when they grow, like too many people and too many cars."

Suddenly, Rooney reappeared with a stop-the-presses look on his face and a couple of scripts in his hand. Then they were off the running, with Morgan departing widely from the written words and bringing off some outlandish puns. (What Carol Heiss wears is Heiss-skates.)

In the fall, he said, he hopes to take over some show somewhere from some fellow on vacation. And, "You notice that nobody ever dies in this business?" he asked.

When the name, Garry Moore, was dropped, Morgan said, "I'm supposed to be a knocker, but let me tell you about this little weasel," and proceeded to pay generous tribute to the man.

THEN IT WAS all over. The last of the shows had been taped. And the last and best of our home-grown satirists was turned out once again to pasture.

(I suggest that you catch this daytime 10-minute radio show before Morgan goes off, and I bring the matter up a second time only because I got my dates wrong the first time out. He says goodbye Friday, not mid-September.)

In a short chat with a visitor later on, he described himself as a "professional counter-puncher." And when satire was mentioned, he said sadly, "We got no satire."

The visitor said he thought Morgan had had some satire going back there in his radio heyday and later on TV and Henry said yes, he supposed he had. But "satire depends on your audience. There's no one-way satire."

The implication was that there's no audience out there for the kind of thing Henry Morgan does best.

I think there is.

Parley Held On U.S., Hungarian Relations

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Premier Janos Kadar and W. Averell Harriman discussed possibilities of improving American-Hungarian relations when the U.S. assistant secretary of state was in Moscow to negotiate the nuclear test ban treaty, Kadar said Monday.

Kadar told a Soviet-Hungarian friendship rally: "We must realize that the American leaders do not love Hungary's government and leaders more than some years ago, yet sober and realistic policies seem to prevail among them these days."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Wait'll I give 'em 'Swanee,'" said Lulu Porter, her dark eyes flashing. "Then I'll hit 'em with 'Come Rain or Come Shine.' How's that for a combination?"

Lulu, 22, was packing her bags—and planning exactly what she was going to do to the Polish Ministry of Culture and Art's International Song Festival.

The Poles may not know it yet. "I've got a big voice," said Lulu, a 5-foot-3 brunette who lived in but they're in for a belting.

Junior Editors Quiz on WEIGHTS

QUESTION: Why does lb. stand for pound and oz. for ounce?

ANSWER: Early in English history a standard pound weight was established, used both for weighing the precious metal early money was made of and other things as well. In old documents often written in Latin, the Latin word "libra" was used for pound, and this became shortened to "lb." This abbreviation then became used when writing in English. "Oz." for "ounce," comes from an old Spanish gold coin, the doubloon, which had the value of 16 dollars and was widely circulated and used at one time by people in many countries. This coin was often referred to as a "Spanish ounce." The Spaniard word for ounce being "onza," the abbreviation "oz." became used in much the same way as a "lb." came from "libra."

Today, "avoirdupois weight" is used for weighing almost all commodities; it has 16 ounces to the pound. Sometimes fractions of a pound are used instead of ounces, as the bag of apples might weigh 2½ lbs. In "fluid measure" 16 ounces equal one pint. Jewellers use "troy weight" with 12 ounces to the pound for weighing precious metals. The "metric system" is used by druggists when they compound prescriptions, and by scientists.

FOR YOU TO DO: Check on some food items in your local stores to see how the weights are shown on the packages.

William Evans Jr. of Cleveland, Tenn., wins the daily prize of a 20-volume World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: May I have the last word in regard to the unfortunate girl who complained because she had a shape like an ironing board? You told her to go to the lingerie store and buy what she needed. I thought your advice was top-notch but one reader wrote to say store-bought curves are dishonest and that such fakery is symbolic of the decay of American integrity. May I tell you what happened when I was a grade school pupil back in 1908?

In those days the teachers wore white shirtwaists and form-fitting, ankle-length skirts. Our history teacher, Miss Smith, was tall and slender with no hips at all, poor thing. Her long, straight skirts made her look 7 feet tall.

One day she appeared in class with a beautiful figure. I was dying of curiosity — and, being 10 years old, I hadn't yet learned it was impolite to ask personal questions. So I asked. This is what she said, "I made myself some hip pads which I tie around my waist. What God has forgotten I made up with cotton."

So, you see, there's nothing new about it. —SEA WILLOW.

Dear Willow: Thanks for the fascinating piece of history, and for a mighty catchy little couplet.

Money Manager

Dear Ann: We are in our early 50s and this is the second marriage for us both. I've always held a responsible job and managed my money affairs well.

When Leonard was widowed 10 years ago he turned over his financial matters to his eldest daughter. His wife allowed that managed the money so his eldest daughter took over where her mother had left off. Leonard handed over his pay check to her and she paid all the bills and gave him an allowance.

We've been married four months and Leonard's daughter still is paying his bills and giving him an allowance. I'm very uncomfortable about this but don't know what to do. We are getting along fine and I don't want to rock the boat. Still, this is like a bone in my throat. Should I say nothing and hope in time he will offer to let me handle the family finances — or what?—NUMBER TWO.

Dear Two: Don't stand on one foot while you're waiting. Lady. It may be a very long wait—like maybe forever.

When Leonard had no wife, it was all right for his daughter to pinch hit, but now that he has a wife, the pinch hitter should be benched.

For Girls Only

Dear Ann: Please print this for all girls who are going steady and are afraid to break up.

I went steady with Bart for a year. He was selfish and inconsiderate and I was miserable most of the time but I thought that was the way love was supposed to be. One day I realized we were fighting all the time so I told him we'd better call it quits. He agreed but asked if we could date once in awhile.

Three weeks went by and he didn't call. I was heartbroken. I regretted the breakup and came close to calling him and admitting it. But somehow I controlled myself.

Then I met Earle. After one date I knew what it was like to be treated like a lady. Earle was everything that Bart wasn't. Last night we ran into Bart at a party and for the first time I saw how crude, arrogant and phony he is.

Now I could kick myself for being so dumb and wasting a whole year on him. Please pass the word. —HAPPIER NOW.

Dear Happier: Hooray for you! You were like that worm in the horseradish who thought it was the sweetest place in the world because it was the only place he'd ever been. P.S.: Students, take note.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Gals: We have been asked so many times to repeat "how to save soap-filled steel wool pads" that I just have to do it.

But let's not make a habit of repeats. We have too many new ideas just waiting for space. Anything that you might take a fancy to hereafter... CLIP IT and file it away.

First and foremost—a penny saved is 10 cents earned. (If you save 10 per cent of your income.) Besides that, we all hate rusty soap-filled pads!

Here's what to do: Take any old peanut butter jar (I don't use a peanut butter jar myself, because one day I happened to look in my cabinet and spied a beautiful sugar bowl and thought to myself, "Now, I have had that 15 years and though it's an antique... why not use it daily? My grandmother left it to my mother, my mother gave it to me and shall I keep it for my daughter... so she can clutter up her cabinets? NO!").

ANYWAY, take a jar and drop any soap-filled pad in it, fill it about 2-3rds full with hot water. Be sure the water covers the pad. Let this sit overnight.

In the morning you will find a goopy substance. This is terrific for many things. You can take any scourer and dip into this goopy mixture and scrub.

But, the best part is that you can pick out the steel wool and squeeze it a bit, then scrub any pot or pan. Wash the steel pad off and place it back in that good jeweler's rouge and scrub away for days without rust!

I have had women write that they have used their soap-filled pads as long as two weeks when using this method.

But the best part of it is that you will have no hard pad to ruin your manicure and fingernails. The pad will be so soft that it will get into those creases in your pans.

Also... when you are scrubbing that skillet with all the scrambled egg residue, the scrambled eggs can be washed out of the pad (so odors and rust won't form) and it's clean.

And remember — No rust as long as the pad is under water, it's soft, it's cleanable (as you have saved all that beautiful goopy stuff for next time) and I find it much more sanitary.

If your goop gets low... add a little water and if you run out of goop before the pad is worn add some liquid detergent to the jar!

Thanks for all your sweet letters, love and thoughts you send. Bless each of you.

HELOISE.

Dear Heloise: For those who have mildew in colored tablecloths: I soak mine in buttermilk. This has worked successfully for me. Let it soak in the butter milk at room temperature until the mildew disappears. Rub slightly, while soaking.

MRS. PAUL FRANKLIN

School Case Charge Aired

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A hearing will resume here Thursday on action to suspend the charter of Farmington High School in Trumbull County for alleged failure to meet state standards.

The hearing got under way Monday with testimony by Dr. E. E. Holt, superintendent of public instruction; Glenn W. Rich, director of the Division of Elementary and Secondary Education, and Doyle Schumaker, a division supervisor.

William Carroll, Columbus attorney and former assistant attorney general presided as referee at the opening session in the State Office Building.

Farmington stands accused of more than a dozen violations, officials said. Other schools in that area facing charter revocation are Bristol Rural, Southington Local and Bloomfield Local. Bloomfield did not request a hearing.

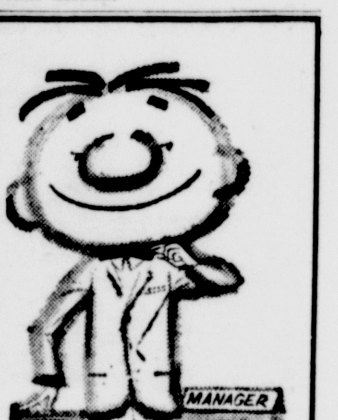

John W. Leibold, Education Department attorney, said Bristol probably would be next in line for hearing after the Farmington case ends.

Nebraska Cattle Start Nuclear Shelter Tests

ELKHORN, Neb. (AP)—Thirty Guernsey cows and a bull go underground today to begin a two-week test of how animals would react to living in a nuclear fallout shelter.

The test will be conducted by J. Gordon Roberts, an Omaha dairyman, in a $35,000 shelter erected in 1961 at Roberts' dairy farm near Elkhorn.

The animals will be taken outside for exercise for short periods after the first day or two—just as they could be after the nuclear fallout began dissipating in an actual attack.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Hikers Should Not Destroy Property

In this column we have deplored the practice of children from so-called good homes, while unsupervised, exploring and playing in a neighborhood about houses under construction. We have seen that it undermines good character and citizenship in the trespassing children.

Today, let us Dr. Garry Meyers look into a like problem when children wander about or go on hikes over outlying areas not far from the village, town or city in which they live.

Such exploratory trips can be wholesome fun, netting good educational experiences, when the youngsters carefully observe the rights of the persons who own the fields or woods through which they go.

THE ACTIVITY may be at its best when one or both parents accompany the children and teach them by precept and example good ways of citizenship.

But, alas, the parents themselves may set bad examples — climbing over and breaking down fences, leaving gates open, trampling down crops or building fires.

Parents who care about the rights of other people and with their children to also, should draw up some rules before setting out on a hike with the children and enforce them on the trip. They should explain to the children why these rules should be observed, causing them to imagine themselves in the place of the owners of the property over which they ramble.

Parents who let the children see and hear them ask for the permission of the owner of the fields or forests they wish to explore.

IF, INADVERTENTLY, some owner of property over which the parents and children were hiking had not been asked for permission and became angered at seeing them on his property, the parents should humbly apologize and explain why they had erred.

About the most immoral thing the parent in such an instance could do would be to mumble ugly remarks about the incensed owner such as "the old crab; how can he be so mean?" Instead, the parent should say to the children: "In his place, we would probably feel and act as he did."

When several children of different families take strolls or hikes without having an older, responsible person along, these children may more easily stray from good citizenship unless they had been educated at home in due regard for the rights of others.

My bulletins, "Educating Your Child In Responsibility" and "Teaching Child Care of Property," may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

IF, INADVERTENTLY, some owner of property over which the parents and children were hiking had not been asked for permission and became angered at seeing them on his property, the parents should humbly apologize and explain why they had erred.

About the most immoral thing the parent in such an instance could do would be to mumble ugly remarks about the incensed owner such as "the old crab; how can he be so mean?" Instead, the parent should say to the children: "In his place, we would probably feel and act as he did."

When several children of different families take strolls or hikes without having an older, responsible person along, these children may more easily stray from good citizenship unless they had been educated at home in due regard for the rights of others.

My bulletins, "Educating Your Child In Responsibility" and "Teaching Child Care of Property," may be secured by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Parents who care about the rights of other people and with their children to also, should draw up some rules before setting out on a hike with the children and enforce them on the trip. They should explain to the children why these rules should be observed, causing them to imagine themselves in the place of the owners of the property over which they ramble.

Parents who let the children see and hear them ask for the permission of the owner of the fields or forests they wish to explore.
